

U. S. SENATE UPSET BY VICE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

County Auditor Is Required by State Law

SUPERVISORS GET OPINION FROM KELLER

Co. Board Informed it Must Make Provision for Such Office

That Lee county is duty bound under the law to appoint an auditor whose duty it shall be to conduct an audit of the books and accounts of all county officers handling public moneys, such an accounting to be made every two years, was the substance of the opinion handed down by State's Attorney Mark S. Keller and submitted to the county board by the judicial committee at yesterday afternoon's session. The opinion briefly set forth the law creating the office of a County Auditor and this was accompanied by the written opinion. Supervisor Roosevelt of Dixon presented a motion in which he asked that the chair appoint a special committee consisting of three members to conduct a further investigation relative to the appointment of a County Auditor and to report at this meeting. Chairman Nicholson appointed Supervisors E. S. Dysart, A. Whittish as judge of election in the fourth precinct and L. J. Miller was named by Supervisor E. L. Lott to succeed the late A. B. Wicker in the first precinct. The judicial committee reported favorably on the matter of the application of Susan Schultheiss of Amboy township for blind pension. A card of thanks for the kindness extended and for the beautiful floral offerings from the board during the illness and death of the late Dixon member, Joseph A. Whittish was received from his widow and daughters and read before the open board. The judicial committee presented the resolution on the death of the late Dixon supervisor which was adopted by the board by a standing vote.

English Woman is Suing for Money Given Hubby

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, March 5.—Mrs. Dorothy M. Dennistoun is suing her husband for a searching cross-examination at the opening of today's session in the trial of her suit against her former husband, Lieut. Col. Ian Owsley Dennistoun, for money. Mrs. Dennistoun is suing him and with which he paid his debts. Mrs. Dennistoun, who divorced her husband in 1921, gave details at yesterday's session of her friendship and intimacy with the late Sir John Stevens Cowans, England's war quarter-master general, which she alleged was encouraged by her husband because of his desire for military promotion. Col. Dennistoun, who married the former Countess of Carnarvon after the death of the late Earl, discovered the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, is charging his former wife, as an adulteress, with misconduct with other men after their divorce. Mrs. Dennistoun was questioned closely with regard to meeting with a Colonel Innes in London and nine fighting craft of the United States navy, now in maneuvers in the Pacific finds staff officers involved actively in great battle problems. War craft are divided between the Black and the White. When "war" was declared the Black fleet was engaged in target practice in the Caribbean Sea. The Pacific coast was denuded of sea strength, save that the scouting fleet (Blue Force) was just through the canal. Whether the lack fleet intended to shell Los Angeles or San Diego; whether it planned to establish an operating base off Lower California to attack American naval forces from the Pacific states or just what it did plan, was the problem for the Blue fleet to decide.

Fleet Commanders Face Genuine Battle Problems

Aboard U. S. S. Seattle, March 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The sixth day of war for one hundred and nine fighting craft of the United States navy, now in maneuvers in the Pacific finds staff officers involved actively in great battle problems. War craft are divided between the Black and the White. When "war" was declared the Black fleet was engaged in target practice in the Caribbean Sea. The Pacific coast was denuded of sea strength, save that the scouting fleet (Blue Force) was just through the canal. Whether the lack fleet intended to shell Los Angeles or San Diego; whether it planned to establish an operating base off Lower California to attack American naval forces from the Pacific states or just what it did plan, was the problem for the Blue fleet to decide.

LET BRIDGE CONTRACT

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Mar. 5.—Contracts for construction of a bridge on route 2, section 7, in Winnebago county and another on route 26, section 7, in Adams county have been awarded Fred Wustholz of Claytonville, Ill. The highway division announced today.

DISTRICT ASSN. P. O. EMPLOYEES WILL BE FORMED

Meeting for Purpose to Be Held in Dixon Tuesday Eve.

The success of the recent get-together meeting of the employees of the postoffice at Sterling, Rock Falls and Dixon held in Sterling several weeks ago has been responsible for an enthusiastic movement to form a Northern Illinois Postoffice Employees Association, which would take in all of the larger postoffices of Whiteside and Lee counties and some of the closer postoffices of other nearby counties. Sponsored by the workers of the Sterling, Rock Falls and Dixon postoffices, a meeting has been called for next Tuesday night in Dixon to which an invitation has been extended to the employees of a score or more other offices to attend. The program for this meeting will be furnished by the sponsors, after which the organization of a Northern Illinois Association will be taken up for consideration. Arrangements for the meeting next Tuesday night are in the hands of the committee composed of Lloyd Miller and H. T. McTee of Sterling, William Klocke and Earl Longfellow of Rock Falls, W. C. Schrock and George Sipas of Dixon. The object of the Dixon meeting and the purpose back of the movement to form a Northern Illinois Association is for the exchange of ideas for the good of the service.

Charge Carload Shipments of Beer Made from Brewery

Elgin, Ill., Mar. 5.—Evidence tending to show that carload lots of beer were shipped to Springfield and Peoria from Warsaw, Ill., plant of the Burgmaster Brewery Company was entered here today before United States Commissioner Charles G. Seidel. The case was taken under advisement for one week, to determine whether the evidence merits the return of the defendants to the Peoria federal court district for trial. Federal Prohibition Agent Bruce Armstrong of Chicago testified that he knew of 200-barrel carloads of beer being shipped from the Warsaw brewery. Counsel for the defense maintained the evidence submitted was insufficient. Only six of the 15 defendants were at the hearing. Warrants are yet to be served on the rest. The defendants present were: Matthew Coster, Scotty Rich, Mathew Kersch, Edward Scheel, E. M. Semon all of Aurora, and Chas. Frank of Chicago. All of the men were released under bonds.

Northern Part of Great Lakes Earthquake Field?

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 5.—Dr. O. C. Farrington, chief of the department of geology of the Field Museum here, has declared that the northern part of the Great Lakes region is the nearest territory to Chicago which might be subject to earthquakes sometime in the future. He bases his conclusions on a geological study following the recent tremor in the east and Canada and an examination of the unofficial reports of that earthquake. Violent earthquakes are, and have been, usually confined to young mountainous or volcanic regions, Dr. Farrington said. No "earthquake areas" of any size are shown in geological charts of the eastern part of the United States he asserted.

JARDINE SWORN IN

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 5.—William M. Jardine, of Kansas, today became secretary of agriculture, succeeding Howard M. Gore, who retired yesterday to take up his duties as governor of West Virginia.

SHORT CUT ROAD, LAMOILLE TO RT. TWO BEING URGED

Lee Co. Supervisors Get Behind Proposed Connecting Road.

Members of the board of supervisors have signed a petition directed to Governor Len Small and Hon. C. H. Miller, director of Public Works & Buildings at Springfield, favoring the location of a stretch of paved road which will afford another avenue of travel which would materially affect Dixon and Lee county. The petition, which is being circulated generally in Amboy, Sublette, and the southern part of the county, was in circulation here today for signatures to report at this session. At this session the petition set forth in the petition that this one of the most important routes in the state of Illinois and would benefit many, if not more, people than many of the other proposed roads. Member Acts as Clerk. Because of illness of deputies in the office of the county clerk, one member of the county board was serving as clerk at the session of the March meeting. Supervisor E. J. Yenicher of Ashton was presiding in this capacity. At this morning's session the contract for supply for the County Home for the ensuing three month period was awarded to Charles R. Hunt of Franklin Grove. The County Board committee presented a recommendation in which they requested that the incoming new board retain Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fry as superintendent and matron of the County Home for the ensuing year. The application of John Triplett of Harmon township for blind pension was referred to the judiciary committee. The Road and Bridge committee presented a resolution at the close of this morning's session, which was unanimously adopted, in which the sum of $1,675.00 was recommended for the amount of state refund to Lee county, be spent on the improvement of section K, 15 D work on the Indian Head road, the village of Harmon. The contract for the Road and Bridge committee last week.

Funeral of Alonzo Boyer Held Wednesday Afternoon

The funeral of Alonzo Boyer, Sr., died yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's Lutheran church, was very largely attended by friends of the well-known Dixon man, whose untimely death brought sorrow to all who knew him. The Rev. J. H. Schmitt, pastor of the church officiated, and the U. S. W. V. of which the deceased was a member, had charge of the services at the grave in Oakwood cemetery. Those present out of town who attended the services were: A. J. Schmitt, La Salle; J. J. Schmitt of Milledgeville; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Friel, Mrs. Victor Barlow, Mrs. Blum and Earl Barlow, all of Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kersten and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grand of Ashton; Mr. and Mrs. William Boyer and son of Quincy and Mrs. Goldie Young of St. Joe, Mich.

Dawes' Dog Disappears and Chauffeur is Worried

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 5.—While his master was taking the oath as vice president of the United States and starting long state senators yesterday, Marlow, wire-haired fox-terrier, belonging to General Charles G. Dawes, disappeared from the Dawes home in Evanston. Nels Hansen, the family chauffeur and canine custodian, was pathetic in his appeal for police assistance. "If that dog ain't back when the General comes home, I hate to think what he will say," he said.

Publishing Business Had Good Increase During Year

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 5.—Publishers of newspapers and periodicals in the United States had an output in 1923 valued at $1,268,501,500, an increase of 12.9 percent over the last preceding census year. The census bureau figures made public today, showed that $793,958,584 of the total was contributed by receipts from advertising and $474,542,916 came from subscriptions and sales.

Wife of "King of the Ivories" in Hospital

Rockford—Struck suddenly with appendicitis, Mrs. Mary M. Snodgrass, wife of "The King of the Ivories," noted radio star now playing at the Palace theater, was removed from her hotel Wednesday to St. Anthony's hospital where she underwent an emergency operation at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Wales in Training

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Merion Maybary, Eng., March 5.—The Prince of Wales is "training" quite strenuously for his trip to South Africa and South America. When not hunting he puts in a good deal of time dancing. At a recent dance he fox trotted from 10 p. m. to 4 a. m., with only an occasional break. The prince's favorite fox trot tune is "Drift Wood," and he is also fond of "Follow the Swallow." "Especially for You" and "Somebody Loves Me."

FOIL NUEVA ECUIA PILOT

Manila, March 5.—(By The Associated Press)—A plot to overthrow the provincial government of the province of Nueva Ecija, seize the treasury, burn the government buildings and kill government officials, was discovered after a fight between constabulary and fanatics known as Colons near San Jose, that province, in which several of the fanatics were killed.

TAKING THE OATH

This photo sent to NEA Service and the Evening Telegraph over the wires of the Bell Telephone system shows Chief Justice Taft administering the oath of office to President Coolidge at the inauguration ceremony at the Capitol. Seven minutes after this picture had been taken at Washington it was flashed across the continent, reaching San Francisco and principal way points in a single operation.

PAYROLL DIXON P. O. INCREASED BY NEW LEGISLATION

Increase Here Amounts to Approximately $10,000 a Year.

An annual increase of approximately $10,000 in salaries for local postal employees was granted by President Coolidge Saturday when he signed the postal pay and rate increase bill. Announcement at the White House that the President had signed the bill came as a surprise, earlier indications being that he would send the measure to the postoffice department and budget bureau for study before taking first action. Dixon postal employees were jubilant at the signing of the bill gives clerks and carriers an increase in salary of $300 a year. Similar increases are awarded to other employees up to and including the assistant postmaster. Increase Retroactive. The raise became effective January 1, 1925. Rural carriers, however, will receive an increase of approximately $1.25 a year, rather than the 10 cents additional for each mile covered by them on their route. Substitute clerks and carriers having five years service to their credit, will now receive $2.00 annually. Sinking of the bill also increases the rates on second, third and fourth class mail matter but the new rates will not become effective until April 15. The raise in rates will mean additional revenue at the local post office using 1924 figures as a basis of comparison. Twenty-four rural and city carriers, clerks, railway mail clerks residing in Dixon, auxiliary help and vacation expense will be increased in the Dixon office to an amount not less than $10,000.

Miss Myrtle Heft Died at Her Home Wednesday

Miss Myrtle Heft passed away at the home of her mother, Mrs. Doris E. Heft, 908 W. First street, at 2:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Rev. F. G. Carlson of St. Luke's Episcopal church officiating. The ladies of the G. A. R. will have services at the house, and the Auxiliary of the U. S. W. V. at the grave. Miss Heft was born in Dixon, Jan. 21, 1887, and is survived by her mother, Walter E., and a sister, Luella, preceded her in death. She was a member of the Royal Neighbors of America, the Auxiliary of the U. S. W. V., the Rebekahs and the Ladies of the G. A. R. Her friends were many, and they unite in mourning her passing.

Tests to Determine Best Type of Planes for Mail

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Omaha, Neb., March 5.—Ten commercial airplanes will be entered by airplane manufacturers in a test on March 15 to determine the type best suited for transcontinental air mail service. Carl S. Edge, general superintendent said upon his return from Washington today. The planes will be shipped to New York or San Francisco and flown from one of the terminals of the air mail route to Monmouth, Ill., by air mail pilots, being tested in this manner. Supt. Harry S. Smith of the Mountain division has been transferred to Monmouth and will have charge of the tests.

DISCOUNT RATE RAISED

London, March 5.—(By The Associated Press)—The discount rate of the Bank of England was raised today to 5 percent. The raising of the bank rate is only a confirmation of the bank's action of last Friday when it raised its loan charges following the advance of the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

STERILIZATION BILL IS GAINING FAVOR IN HOUSE

Women Members to Get Behind it; House Takes Recess.

Springfield, Ill., March 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Recommendation for additional buildings at the Chicago State Hospital sufficient to house 1000 patients and for a survey by the State Fire Marshal to devise means of reducing the fire hazard there was recommended to the House today by the special committee which visited that institution. The matter was referred to the appropriations committee, and it is expected that an appropriation of $500,000 will be asked for the new buildings. A bill to regulate dance halls outside of cities was presented today by Mrs. Katherine Goode, Chicago. It is similar to a bill previously offered in the Senate by Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington. Ex-Speaker is Ill. A change in committee assignments was made by Speaker Scholes as the result of a request by former Speaker David E. Shanahan, Chicago, that he be relieved of membership on all except the Appropriations committee. Shanahan is ill and has attended only one meeting of the House this session. Matt Frank, Chicago and James H. Foster, Macomb, were appointed to membership on the Appropriations committee; Mathew Perina, Chicago, was named to the Banks and Building committee and Thomas F. Reilly, Chicago, was appointed to the Waterways committee. The House adjourned today until next Tuesday when the Senate also will return from a week's vacation. For Sterilization Bill. Support for the bill to sterilize idiots, imbeciles, epileptics and insane persons, introduced in the House Wednesday by Representative John W. Ogburn, Chicago, was voiced today by the three women members of the House, Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downers Grove and Mrs. Katherine Goode and Mrs. Rena Elrod, Chicago. Each expressed the belief that the bill represents an advancement in social thought and will benefit society and pointed out that the idea has been advocated by many women's clubs and social organizations for several years. Mrs. Goode said that care should be taken not to invoke the law in any case where there is a doubt as to the justice of committing a person to a state institution. S. R. Tamm and Charles A. Griffin, Chicago, negro members, said they will support the bill which has created more cloak room comment than any other bill introduced at this session.

DAY'S WORK MAIN THING IN AFFAIRS OF THE PRESIDENT

At His Desk Early as If Nothing Had Happened Yesterday.

Washington, March 5.—(By the Associated Press)—President Coolidge took up today the four-year burden placed upon his shoulders yesterday by the people with no indication that he might change his simple program of "doing a day's work." Vice President Dawes faced his second day as presiding officer of the special session of the new Senate, with the startling effects of his presidential inaugural address still fresh in the minds of the members. With the induction into office of Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, as secretary of state and William M. Jardine of Kansas as secretary of agriculture, the President's cabinet still lacks an attorney general. The nomination of Charles B. Warren of Michigan to fill this post was allowed to expire with the 68th Congress yesterday and its re-submission to the special Senate session will be one of the principal nominations to engage its attention. Everett Sanders of Indiana, successor to C. Bascom Siemp, as secretary to the President, was sworn in late yesterday after his term as representative from Indiana ended. Many Visitors Remind. Many of the thousands of visitors who came to Washington for the inaugural remained today to "look around" before returning home. Those remaining included all of the personal guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge, including Mrs. Andrew I. Goodhue of Northampton, Mass., the mother of Mrs. Coolidge, and Colonel John C. Coolidge, the executive's father. The rain which government forecasters feared might mar the inaugural ceremony yesterday held off until morning, maintaining the "Coolidge luck" tradition. Apparently unfatigued by the strenuous activities of yesterday, the President was at his desk before 9 o'clock this morning and immediately plunged into routine work. During the morning he had engagements with Secretary Kellogg, Senator Bingham of Connecticut and Governor Billings of Vermont. Former Representative Frank L. Smith of Illinois, the South Dakota congressional delegation and Emilie Kuntz, republican national committeewoman from Louisiana also had appointments. University of Chicago Needs Much this Year. By Associated Press Leased Wire
St. Louis, Mo., March 5.—A university that is not advancing is retrograding and the University of Chicago can advance the work which it has been carrying on only by buildings and equipment. The university is in a position of unusual ability in the opinion of Dr. Ernest D. Burton, president, speaking here last night. To that end $17,500,000 is required this year, he said.

Another Dawn-to-Dusk Flight Will Be Tried

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Augusta, Ga., March 5.—Another dawn-to-dusk flight from Selfridge Field, Michigan, to Miami, Fla., will be attempted by the first pursuit group of the army air service as soon as arrangements can be completed. Major Lanphier, commander said today. The major is returning to Selfridge Field after an unsuccessful dawn-to-dusk flight started last Saturday.

YOUTH FREED OF MURDER CHARGE; JUDGE IS ANGRY

Jurist Scored Father of Dead Pekin Girl After Verdict.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Peoria, Ill., March 5.—A tip to the sheriff that a mob would be formed to get Fred Lichtenberger, 28, acquitted last night at Pekin of the murder of Mary Ellen Miller, 20, prevented his release from the county jail there last night, it was revealed here today. Lichtenberger had intended to go to the home of his uncle last night, but postponed the trip until this morning. The trial, the most sensational in central Illinois in many years, came to a dramatic close last night after a day during which crowds stormed the court room injuring several men and women. The jury was out one hour and a half, taking only one ballot. A wild demonstration of approval swept the court room, hundreds cheered for the trial closing arguments and until near midnight for the verdict. Judge T. N. Green said the verdict was a just one and bitterly assailed William Eizenmiller, father of the girl, as the cause of the tragedy, through his opposition to the marriage of his daughter to their farm hand. The crowd which had been shouting their approval became suddenly hostile and many went during the judge's remarks. By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Mar. 5.—The World Court issue was injected today into the special session of the Senate. By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Mar. 5.—Vice President Dawes' departure from the usual procedure of the Senate yesterday, by becoming the subject of debate today immediately after the Senate convened. The new Vice President was presiding and he and Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, were undertaking to hasten the proceedings when Senator Hale, republican, Maine, arose to explain that he alone was responsible for Mr. Dawes' leaving the Senate for a time yesterday without a regularly constituted presiding officer. Then Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, objected to dispensing with the reading of the journal as is customary, explaining that he wanted to find out just how the journal recorded events yesterday. The first special session over which Mr. Dawes presided. Arising to a point of personal privilege, Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, said the newspapers had credited the Vice President with a brilliant inaugural address, and declared that whatever criticism he offered had been because of his "unseemly and unkindly interruption" of the administering of oaths to senators. The senator declared there were many things in Mr. Dawes' address about modification of Senate rules with which he was in entire accord. After some more discussion and a quorum call, the reading of the journal was resumed. The Senate recessed until 2 p. m., so that a committee might advise the President that it was ready to transact business. He Has No Voice. Senators pointed out today that Mr. Dawes would have neither voice nor vote on the question of the Senate rules, since under the constitution the Senate alone has authority to determine its own procedure. While designated as presiding officer of the Senate, the authority of the Vice President has been limited to the making of parliamentary rulings and the casting of a vote only in the event a tie. If a candidate for the Senate alone has authority to determine its own procedure, the Senate even can override any ruling he makes. The new Senate with its newly inaugurated president, Vice President Dawes, resumed its special session called yesterday immediately after adjournment sine die of the 68th Congress. The session is expected to continue more than a month. Prior to convening, the republican members were called in conference to pass on committee assignments by the republican committee on Senate rules and select a candidate for president pro tem and other Senate officers. The only matter of controversy for the republican conference was the question of appointing a committee on committees in removing Senator La Follette and three of his followers—Brookhart of Iowa and Ladd and Brazier of North Dakota—from their places in the Senate. Among principal nominations to be acted on is that of Charles B. Warren of Michigan to be attorney general. The Vice President's wide departure from the perfunctory character of deliverance usual to the occasion in his inaugural address yesterday, in which he attacked the Senate and its members, was a matter of surprise and discussion today. Memory was still fresh of the "surprise" and "astonishment" were unceremoniously brushed aside, particularly the time-saving manner in which he finally swore in the new senators en masse instead of by groups of four. The evident wave of astonishment that swept over the Senate members gave way to much candid comment. While republican leaders generally maintained silence, there was some vigorous characterization by democratic leaders of the new vice president's verbal broadside. The nomination of Harry S. New, of Indiana to succeed himself as postmaster general also was sent to the Senate. The batch of nominations sent in by the President did not include those of other cabinet members, however, and it was indicated that Mr. Coolidge had taken the position that they could continue in office under the new administration without another confirmation by the Senate. Neither did Mr. Coolidge return the nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock of New York, as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is understood another is under consideration for the place.

Mitchell's Successor to be One of Three Men

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Mar. 5.—The list of those from which Secretary Weeks will recommend to President Coolidge a successor to Brig. Gen. Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, and storm center of the aircraft controversy, has been reduced to three officers and a final decision is probable late today. Some of the men now under consideration ranks below the grade of Lieut. Col. Secretary Weeks conferred today with Major General Hines, chief of staff of the army, and Major General Patrick, chief of the air service. Friends of General Mitchell, who have given up hope of obtaining his reappointment, turned their efforts today toward helping him obtain a future place in the air service which would confer with the rank of Colonel, to which he reverts automatically. It was suggested he might be assigned to staff duty with one of the corps area commanders, perhaps in Michigan to fill this area with headquarters in Chicago. ### NEAR END OF MURDER TRIAL

By Associated Press Leased Wire

South Bend, Ind., Mar. 5.—Attorneys representing 22-year-old Raymond Moseley planned today to complete the closing of the trial of the man charged with the crime of murder to which he has pleaded guilty. The youth is on trial before a jury which will determine the degree of his guilt in connection with the killing of three men during the attempted holdup of a soft drink saloon here last December. The jury will receive the case late today. Defense evidence thus far introduced has concerned Moseley's mentality.

Heidelberg, Germany, March 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The body of Friedrich Ebert, first president of the German republic, was laid in its final resting place here today. The burial occurred after a sermon and prayer by Dr. Mass, the Evangelical Lutheran city chaplain of Heidelberg. President Ebert's funeral train reached Heidelberg early today. Banners and flags lined the streets in the procession through the streets. The whole city was given over to mourning.

DISTINCTIONS

There are many words in the English language that have almost the same meanings and yet a fine line of distinction should be drawn where the aim is to use the most expressive word for the particular purpose. The New Universities Dictionary a little story is told—yes, a little story, for this is much more than a dry book of words—which illustrates the difference between the words "surprise" and "astonishment," which are so often used synonymously. The story runs as follows: When Mrs. Blank discovered her son had taken a glass of milk from the cupboard late at night, she told him she was surprised. He replied, "No, you are astonished; I'm surprised." The boy was taken aback, so she was "surprised" but his mother was struck with sudden wonder, so she was "astonished" or she might have been "amazed." This new dictionary, which is being offered through announcements appearing in the columns from day to day, is the most useful volume of the kind ever published. It is new throughout, and every reader may have one by taking advantage of the offer and explaining in the coupon printed elsewhere in this issue.

Wall Street Review

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, March 5.—Supporting orders were supplied in large volume at the opening of today's stock market as a result of the sharp reaction in yesterday's late trading. Equipment, American Car & Foundry rising, American Locomotive 2 and Baldwin improving fractionally. American Sugar Refining lost a point.

Fresh selling developed on the bulls with the result that considerable irregularity took place around the end.

About Laboratory Visit

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, March 5.—William D. Shepherd, foster-father and heir by a will now in dispute to the million dollar estate of William N. McClintock, who died of typhoid in December, will be ordered to appear at the state's attorney's office later today to be questioned in connection with the visits of a man answering his description to a laboratory, John Shephard, assistant state's attorney announced.

Shardbaro said detectives had questioned a woman owner of a laboratory who, after looking at a picture of Shepherd, said he resembled a man who had visited her laboratory. The man had made inquiries about cultures. Mr. Shephard said she had told investigators. The woman also was to be taken to the state's attorney's office to see Shepherd.

DIXON-STERLING
COOTIE TENT IS STARTED BY VETSOfficers of Fun Degree of
V. F. W. Elected at Meetings Here.

The Twin City Pup Tent of the Military Order of Cooties, the fun degree of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was organized this week in Union hall, Dixon. The name applies to Dixon and Sterling posts of the V. F. W., rather than to the Twin Cities of Sterling and Rock Falls, as the pup tent is a combination organization taking in members of the Horace F. Ornt post No. 450 of Dixon and Bert E. Brown post, No. 32.6 of Sterling.

There were 21 Cooties present from the Sterling post and 32 from the Dixon post. The meeting was called to order by George F. Walker, significant Hide Glimmer of the fertile Hunting Ground of Illinois, in other words a member of the executive official force of the state department of the order.

The meeting proceeded to the organization of the pup tent and elected the following officers; each one preceded by the official title of "Insignificant Hide Glimmer": George F. Walker, Dixon; Blanket Bum, Hiram Wiles, Sterling; Custodian of Crummy Duffle Bag, Fred G. Allard, Sterling; Provost Marshal, John Mahar, Dixon; Jimmy sidekick, George E. L. Dixon; Shirt leader, Ernest Derrick, Sterling; Tight Wads, Walter Smith and William Bradley, Dixon, and Wm. Harms, Sterling. Two appointive officers the pill puncher and wind jammer, are to be appointed from the Sterling post.

The new organization is preparing for a grand pup tent meeting in Dixon on the evening of Tuesday, March 21. When the wind will be put on by the Peoria pup tent.

The order is organized to enliven the veterans' organization with a light side of fun making, the cootie being adopted as the symbol of the order because it typifies more than anything else the type of trouble connected with the over-exaggeration of the veterans that can be laughed at heartily now, after it is all over.

OBITUARY

JOHN F. SMITH

(Contributed)

John F. Smith was born in Hanover, Germany in 1846 and came to Cumberland, Md., with his parents when six years old. He was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Proffert of Essen, Lauring, France, Feb. 2, 1868. Mr. Smith was a native of Germany and lived with her parents. His wife preceded him in death 27 years ago. To this union five children were born. Two sons died in infancy, two daughters, Katherine Kendall of Dixon and Barbara, nee Smith, of Memphis, Tenn., one son, George F. Smith of this city survive him, also three granddaughters, Mrs. John W. Young, Mrs. Dollie Becker and Mrs. Jennie Jensen all of Dixon, together with a great-grandchild, Mr. Smith was a resident of Dixon for the last 40 years. He was a stone mason by trade and built railroad arches and bridges for the Northwestern railroad in 1885. He also built a bridge in Wisconsin. In 1894 he took up land agency for the Illinois Central railroad from Dixon to Water Valley, Miss., where he moved with his family and later where his wife died shortly after. He returned to Dixon, Ill., and made his home with his daughter where he died. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at the Preston chapel, Rev. Lloyd W. Walter officiating and with burial in Oakwood.

Washington.—The treasury announced that an additional issue of 20 to 30 year 4 percent bonds with an offering of nine months treasury certificates of indebtedness bearing three percent interest would constitute the March 15 quarterly fiscal operation.

New York.—Count Michael Karolyi, deposed first president of Hungary, made his first public appearance since the state department placed "restrictions" upon his activities in America.

THE CHAMBERED NAUTILUS.
This is the ship of pearl, which poets praise.

Here the unshadowed main—
The venturesome bark that flings,
On the sunset summer wind its purple wings
In gulf enchanted, when the stars
And coral reefs be bare,
Where the cold sea-maiden rises to swim their streaming hair.

Its web of living gauze no more unfurls
Wrecked by the ship of pearl!
And every chambered nautilus
Has left its dream of life was wont to dwell.
As the frail tenant shaped his growing shell,
Before thee lies revealed,
Its tried and tested, its untried crypt unsealed!

Year after year behind the silent toll
That spread its lustrous oolite;
Still, as the spiral grew,
He left the past year's dwelling for the new,
Stole with soft step its shining archway through,
Built up its idle door,
Stretched in his last found home, and knew the old no more.

Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee,
Child of the wandering sea,
Cast from her lap, forlorn!
From thy dead lips a clearer note is born
Than ever Triton blew from wreathed horn!
While on mine ear it rings,
Through the deep caves of thought
I hear a voice that sings:
Build thee more stately mansions,
O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Meeting of Amboy Relief Corps

The meeting of the Amboy Relief Corps, No. 138, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, was held in W. R. C. hall in Amboy, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 28th.

A most enjoyable meeting was held. Some officers were not able to attend owing to illness. Plans were made by the social committee for a card party in W. R. C. hall, last evening.

Young People's Missionary Society

The Young People's Missionary society of the M. E. church met with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swin of Brinton avenue, Tuesday evening. There was a good attendance of members.

Mrs. A. L. Richardson led the devotions and the prayer was given by Rev. A. S. Moore.

A very nice program was given, including a clarinet solo very well given by Paige Swin, accompanied by Miss Frances Ackert. This number was encored and response was given.

The Home Study subject was very well given by Mr. Burkett.

The Foreign Study was given by Mrs. Nicholas, a former missionary to China. Mrs. Nicholas told of many interesting experiences with the people of China. At the close of the meeting games were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

On departing all thanked Mr. and Mrs. Swin for their kind hospitality.

Menu for the Family
Sister Mary.

Breakfast:
Stewed figs, cereal, thin cream, poached eggs on graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Asparagus in ramikins, lettuce and wiches, bran pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Fillet of sole with lemon butter, boiled potatoes, beef greens, jellied egg salad, rhubarb pudding, ripe bread, milk, coffee.

Crisp brown toast is particularly acceptable with a soft cereal. The toast makes one "cheer" which is not a virtue of the cereal.

Asparagus in Ramikins.
One cup cooked asparagus tips, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 1 1/2 cups white sauce, 4 teaspoons grated cheese, four tablespoons coarse bread crumbs, two tablespoons butter.

Cut asparagus into inch pieces. Put a layer in well-buttered ramikins, add slices of eggs, pour over white sauce to cover. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a hot oven for 15 or 20 minutes. Serve in the ramikins.

Bran Pudding.
Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lard, 1/4 cup molasses, 1/4 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup white flour, 1 cup bran, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup stoned and chopped dates.

Soften shortening. Add molasses and mix well. Beat eggs well and add to first mixture. Mix and sift soda and salt with flour. Add bran and add alternately with milk to mixture. Stir in dates. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two hours. Serve with a simple lemon sauce.

Fillet of Sole with Lemon Butter.
One and one-half pounds fillet of sole, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 to 3 cups boiling water.

Add salt and lemon juice to boiling water. Add fish and bring quickly to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer just below the boiling point for 10 minutes. Drain and place on a hot platter. Pour over 3 tablespoons butter melted and blended with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

Rhubarb Pudding.
One bunch (1 pound) rhubarb, one cup bread crumbs, 1 cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, 1 egg.

Wash rhubarb and cut into inch lengths. If the rhubarb has a very thin tender skin wash well through several waters and do not pare. Parboil in 2 tablespoons water to which 1/4 teaspoon soda has been added. Rhine in cold water and cook in just enough to prevent burning until tender. Add sugar and butter and cook one minute longer. Remove from the fire and stir in egg well beaten. Coat the bottom of a deep, well-buttered pie dish with bread crumbs, add the rhubarb mixture and cover with remaining crumbs. Bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes. Cover dish with a buttered paper while baking to prevent the top from becoming too brown. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

D. A. R. TO MEET SATURDAY AFTERNOON.
The D. A. R. will meet Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. A. L. Barlow, 217 Galena avenue, with Miss Osborn.

Presented Beautiful Flag Sunday
(Contributed.)
A pleasant surprise to the members of the Sunday school and church of Grace Evangelical church was experienced last Sunday morning. Mrs. Richardson, daughter of Mr. H. H. Ringler presented a large American flag to the church as a gift from her father and mother. She told the story of how that her father and the late Charles I. Will had spoken of purchasing a new flag as a gift but their resolve was not wrought out on account of the death of Mr. Will and that Mr. and Mrs. Ringler were glad for the privilege of fulfilling the wish. Mr. Ringler and Mr. Will were members of the same regiment during the Civil war. The pastor and superintendent, C. C. Buzard, responded to Mrs. Richardson's words and a verse of America and salute was given by all. We love the flag under which our homes, churches and schools have protection.

To Consider Eight Hour Bill Tuesday
Springfield, March 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—On next Tuesday the eight-hour bill for women, presented in the house of the general assembly by Lottie Holman O'Neill, will be considered at a joint meeting of the house and senate committees on industrial affairs.

Mrs. O'Neill does not expect to do more than outline the purpose of the bill and the conditions which inspired her to present it. The principal speeches in its support, she said, will be made by representatives of women's club from all parts of the state and by representatives of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

The fight against a favorable report on the measure will be led by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, which has circulated its members for their opinions. All of the quotations listed in the circular attack the measure.

The objection most frequently advanced is that the bill would necessitate abolition of the Saturday half holiday for women and men employees alike, with an attendant dispute with labor over the justness of such a move on the part of the employer.

Other objections are that reduction of working hours would mean a reduction of wages and that it would prevent adequate production of seasonal merchandise at rush periods. Other employers answered that passage of the bill would force them to dispense with female help entirely.

Advocates of the bill base their support on social grounds. "Every move for the betterment of any class of workers has always met with the same old cry that the adoption of a corrective measure would force them out of business or seriously hamper their operation in an unfair way but the results of similar successful moves have proved the justice of that claim," said John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

"It will be a big advance for the women of Illinois and will do much to protect their health and give them a position in industry much more acceptable than is at present the case. With more and more women engaging in gainful occupations it is an imperative necessity that their hours of work and working conditions be so regulated as not to injure their health," said Mrs. O'Neill.

Women's Auxiliary Elected Officers
Tuesday evening the members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Mrs. E. A. Sickels. It was a most enjoyable meeting.

During the business meeting officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President—Mrs. Harry Roe.
Vice President—Miss Jean Hitchcock.
Secretary—Mrs. A. A. Rowland.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Alvin Larson.

Treasurer—Mrs. E. A. Sickels.
After the business meeting and during the social hour, the hostess was assisted by the following committee in the serving of appetizing refreshments: Mesdames Alvin Larson, W. C. Durkes, E. B. Raymond, Guy Newman, O. M. Rogers, G. J. Downing and C. E. Smith.

Costume for Inauguration "Coolidge Gray"
Washington, March 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—"Harding blue," the new shade brought out four years ago by Mrs. Harding had its counterpart today in "Coolidge gray," the dominating tone of Mrs. Coolidge's costume for the inauguration ceremonies.

The new color is known as "moon stone," a shade deeper and warmer than pearl. The costume was of sensible effect, American designed and American made. The coat and lower portion of the gown was of a light woolen material, known as "Josselyn cloth," somewhat of a cross between duvetyne and kasha.

Mrs. Coolidge's hat was of soft straw, rather high crowned and small brimmed, trimmed across the top from side to side with a band of burnt goose. Her slippers and hose were gray.

The costume of Mrs. Dawes was a blue spring suit with hat to match.

WHAT PARIS DECREES RIGHT NOW
By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, March 5.—Skirts above the knees, curled eye lashes and red ears are the latest Paris modes. New York has just been informed. Some of the passengers returning on the Olympic yesterday, had skirts reaching only to their knees.

Miss Nina Boldin, speaking before the Master Hair Dressers Association convention, said the new Parisian makeup included reddened ears and nostrils blue or brown lidded eyes and curled lashes.

WILL LEAVE MONDAY FOR CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Lehman anticipate a delightful visit to the south. They will leave Monday morning for Chattanooga, Tenn., to spend some time.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHOIR TO MEET TONIGHT
The Presbyterian Young People's Choir will meet this evening at 6:45 o'clock.

KINGDOM MT. UNION AID SOCIETY
The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society will meet next Wednesday in an all-day meeting with Mrs. John Strub, 215 Fifth street.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO MEET FRIDAY
The Woman's Auxiliary to the St. Luke's church will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 in the Guild rooms of the church.

Oxygen is said to be a cure for sea sickness.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Wooden Utensils.
Do not dry wooden kitchen utensils such as chopping bowl and mixing forks and spoons over artificial heat as this will cause them to warp and crack.

Ironing Board.
Your ironing board should wear a cover when it is not in use so as to keep it as clean as possible.

To Keep Egg Yolks.
Egg yolks, if they are unbroken, may be covered with water and kept for several days. The water should be changed daily.

To Air Mattress.
A good way to air the mattress is to stand it up against the wall or draw it over the foot board.

To Clean Lace.
Gold and silver lace embroidery may be cleaned by brushing with alcohol or gasoline.

Dinner Tables.
Dinner tables in steady use ought to be washed and polished monthly if you want them in the pink of condition.

Rice in Beef Loaf.
Add a cup of rice to beef loaf and you will find the flavor improved. Besides, the loaf will be moist and slice without crumbling.

For Thickening Gravy.
Always mix a little salt with the flour before you use it for thickening gravy or soup and there will be no lumps.

Cleaning Frames.
To clean gilt picture frames cover them with a cream made of butter and alcohol after wiping and brushing away all possible dust.

Use Newspapers.
Wash windows and mirrors with newspaper squeezed as dry as possible out of cold water containing a little ammonia.

Wrap in Tissue.
When white silk garments are to be laid away for some time, wrap them in dark blue tissue paper.

Presented Beautiful Flag Sunday
(Contributed.)
A pleasant surprise to the members of the Sunday school and church of Grace Evangelical church was experienced last Sunday morning. Mrs. Richardson, daughter of Mr. H. H. Ringler presented a large American flag to the church as a gift from her father and mother. She told the story of how that her father and the late Charles I. Will had spoken of purchasing a new flag as a gift but their resolve was not wrought out on account of the death of Mr. Will and that Mr. and Mrs. Ringler were glad for the privilege of fulfilling the wish. Mr. Ringler and Mr. Will were members of the same regiment during the Civil war. The pastor and superintendent, C. C. Buzard, responded to Mrs. Richardson's words and a verse of America and salute was given by all. We love the flag under which our homes, churches and schools have protection.

To Consider Eight Hour Bill Tuesday
Springfield, March 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—On next Tuesday the eight-hour bill for women, presented in the house of the general assembly by Lottie Holman O'Neill, will be considered at a joint meeting of the house and senate committees on industrial affairs.

Mrs. O'Neill does not expect to do more than outline the purpose of the bill and the conditions which inspired her to present it. The principal speeches in its support, she said, will be made by representatives of women's club from all parts of the state and by representatives of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

The fight against a favorable report on the measure will be led by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, which has circulated its members for their opinions. All of the quotations listed in the circular attack the measure.

The objection most frequently advanced is that the bill would necessitate abolition of the Saturday half holiday for women and men employees alike, with an attendant dispute with labor over the justness of such a move on the part of the employer.

Other objections are that reduction of working hours would mean a reduction of wages and that it would prevent adequate production of seasonal merchandise at rush periods. Other employers answered that passage of the bill would force them to dispense with female help entirely.

Advocates of the bill base their support on social grounds. "Every move for the betterment of any class of workers has always met with the same old cry that the adoption of a corrective measure would force them out of business or seriously hamper their operation in an unfair way but the results of similar successful moves have proved the justice of that claim," said John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

"It will be a big advance for the women of Illinois and will do much to protect their health and give them a position in industry much more acceptable than is at present the case. With more and more women engaging in gainful occupations it is an imperative necessity that their hours of work and working conditions be so regulated as not to injure their health," said Mrs. O'Neill.

Women's Auxiliary Elected Officers
Tuesday evening the members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Mrs. E. A. Sickels. It was a most enjoyable meeting.

During the business meeting officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

President—Mrs. Harry Roe.
Vice President—Miss Jean Hitchcock.
Secretary—Mrs. A. A. Rowland.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Alvin Larson.

Treasurer—Mrs. E. A. Sickels.
After the business meeting and during the social hour, the hostess was assisted by the following committee in the serving of appetizing refreshments: Mesdames Alvin Larson, W. C. Durkes, E. B. Raymond, Guy Newman, O. M. Rogers, G. J. Downing and C. E. Smith.

Costume for Inauguration "Coolidge Gray"
Washington, March 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—"Harding blue," the new shade brought out four years ago by Mrs. Harding had its counterpart today in "Coolidge gray," the dominating tone of Mrs. Coolidge's costume for the inauguration ceremonies.

The new color is known as "moon stone," a shade deeper and warmer than pearl. The costume was of sensible effect, American designed and American made. The coat and lower portion of the gown was of a light woolen material, known as "Josselyn cloth," somewhat of a cross between duvetyne and kasha.

Mrs. Coolidge's hat was of soft straw, rather high crowned and small brimmed, trimmed across the top from side to side with a band of burnt goose. Her slippers and hose were gray.

The costume of Mrs. Dawes was a blue spring suit with hat to match.

WHAT PARIS DECREES RIGHT NOW
By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, March 5.—Skirts above the knees, curled eye lashes and red ears are the latest Paris modes. New York has just been informed. Some of the passengers returning on the Olympic yesterday, had skirts reaching only to their knees.

Miss Nina Boldin, speaking before the Master Hair Dressers Association convention, said the new Parisian makeup included reddened ears and nostrils blue or brown lidded eyes and curled lashes.

WILL LEAVE MONDAY FOR CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Lehman anticipate a delightful visit to the south. They will leave Monday morning for Chattanooga, Tenn., to spend some time.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHOIR TO MEET TONIGHT
The Presbyterian Young People's Choir will meet this evening at 6:45 o'clock.

KINGDOM MT. UNION AID SOCIETY
The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society will meet next Wednesday in an all-day meeting with Mrs. John Strub, 215 Fifth street.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO MEET FRIDAY
The Woman's Auxiliary to the St. Luke's church will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 in the Guild rooms of the church.

Menu for the Family
Sister Mary.

Breakfast:
Stewed figs, cereal, thin cream, poached eggs on graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Asparagus in ramikins, lettuce and wiches, bran pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Fillet of sole with lemon butter, boiled potatoes, beef greens, jellied egg salad, rhubarb pudding, ripe bread, milk, coffee.

Crisp brown toast is particularly acceptable with a soft cereal. The toast makes one "cheer" which is not a virtue of the cereal.

Asparagus in Ramikins.
One cup cooked asparagus tips, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 1 1/2 cups white sauce, 4 teaspoons grated cheese, four tablespoons coarse bread crumbs, two tablespoons butter.

Cut asparagus into inch pieces. Put a layer in well-buttered ramikins, add slices of eggs, pour over white sauce to cover. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a hot oven for 15 or 20 minutes. Serve in the ramikins.

Bran Pudding.
Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lard, 1/4 cup molasses, 1/4 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup white flour, 1 cup bran, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup stoned and chopped dates.

Soften shortening. Add molasses and mix well. Beat eggs well and add to first mixture. Mix and sift soda and salt with flour. Add bran and add alternately with milk to mixture. Stir in dates. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two hours. Serve with a simple lemon sauce.

Fillet of Sole with Lemon Butter.
One and one-half pounds fillet of sole, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 to 3 cups boiling water.

Add salt and lemon juice to boiling water. Add fish and bring quickly to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer just below the boiling point for 10 minutes. Drain and place on a hot platter. Pour over 3 tablespoons butter melted and blended with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

Rhubarb Pudding.
One bunch (1 pound) rhubarb, one cup bread crumbs, 1 cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, 1 egg.

Wash rhubarb and cut into inch lengths. If the rhubarb has a very thin tender skin wash well through several waters and do not pare. Parboil in 2 tablespoons water to which 1/4 teaspoon soda has been added. Rhine in cold water and cook in just enough to prevent burning until tender. Add sugar and butter and cook one minute longer. Remove from the fire and stir in egg well beaten. Coat the bottom of a deep, well-buttered pie dish with bread crumbs, add the rhubarb mixture and cover with remaining crumbs. Bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes. Cover dish with a buttered paper while baking to prevent the top from becoming too brown. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

SUCCESSOR TO GRANDFATHER LAWS.

Can a negro be a democrat, or claim to be a democrat? This seems to have been decided in the negative in a case in the United States district court in the western district of Texas recently. The decision was to the effect that a primary election is not within the meaning of the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting infringement of the right to vote on account of color, and that a Texas law prohibiting negroes from voting at democratic primary elections which are the elections that settle everything in Texas—is within the police power of the state. If a negro's vote, or the vote of any one else, could settle anything at a general election following the primary, then it might ethically be held that barring the voter from the democratic party primary did not infringe on his rights under the fifteenth amendment. But such is not the case.

As a way in which to avoid the fifteenth, this is a device really more effective than the "grandfather" laws, which are becoming obsolete now that plenty of the young colored people are grandchildren of negroes who were free after the Civil war.

WAS FRIEND OF ROOSEVELT.

Former Senator Clark, who was from Montana, died at his home in New York recently. He was immensely wealthy. Yet he is remembered by many as having been the "Irish" of the Irish and Dutch duo, Roosevelt being the Dutchman, who elicited the cry from the crowd at a great political rally in the far northwest at which both Roosevelt and Clark were to speak. "The Irish and the Dutch, they don't amount to much, but hurrah for the Scandinavians." The story goes that at the next meeting of Roosevelt and Clark, it was in the white house when Roosevelt was president. Immediately on Clark's entrance, Roosevelt, ignoring the presence of all others, began dancing around the room with Clark, the two repeating in unison the cry they had heard from the crowd at that campaign rally. Some of those present, who did not understand what it was all about, feared Roosevelt had gone suddenly mad.

PRESIDENT'S POWER IN CONTEMPT CASES.

Presidential power to pardon in contempt cases was affirmed in the United States supreme court. Such a check is held necessary against possible judicial injustice. Philip Grossman of Chicago had been sentenced to a year in prison and to pay a fine of $1000 for contempt of an injunction to restrain him from selling liquor. Before he had been committed to jail the president commuted his sentence to payment of the fine. The district court then took issue with the president and ordered Grossman committed to jail. Grossman appealed to the supreme court, with the result that the power of the president is confirmed. This, says the opinion rendered by Chief Justice Taft, is "a check entrusted to the executive for special cases. To exercise it to the extent of destroying the deterrent effect of judicial punishment would be to pervert it; but whoever is to make it useful must have full discretion to exercise it. Our constitution confers this discretion on the highest officer in the nation in confidence that he will not abuse it."

MADDEN'S DEFEAT NO WHOLLY A LOSS.

There is disappointment all over Illinois that Madden did not win the speakership race at Washington. Nevertheless the Telegraph is far from unmixedly sorry that he did not win this honor, one that he richly deserved because of his long faithful service in congress. Loss of the position leaves Congressman Madden still available for the very important position which he now holds, that of chairman of the budget committee. Few men indeed could have rendered the service that he has given the country as head of this committee. His large financial knowledge and his great familiarity with the real needs of the nation make of him a man who can not easily be misled into putting into the budget appropriations of an extravagant nature that do not belong there. While liberal minded and standing for appropriations for the good of the country as a whole, he may yet be depended on as one who will whole-heartedly sustain President Coolidge in his desire for reasonable economy.

ODD.

Life offers stranger coincidences than fiction. A Cleveland judge, placing a wreath on Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon on Washington's birthday, turns around to see his wife drop to the ground, dead. Heart failure, said the doctor. Thus the judge, paying homage to a dead man in the name of Ohio Masonry, remains to mourn his own dead. You read this and are interested. But it is not death that is interesting. It is how you die and where. Floyd Collins was an example.

Lincoln, slayer of his wife and her brother, is found sane and guilty, yet he is allowed to escape the gallows. Enforcement of the dry law is after all about as well maintained as enforcement of our laws against murder.

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL.

The Chicago Tribune, which originally supported the direct primary, now "regretfully" advocates its repeal, or its limitation to the few most important offices, on the ground that it is a failure as to the multitude of minor offices.

The people cannot vote on these intelligently, at either the primary election or the election.

Therefore, argues the Tribune quite illogically, they shall cease to vote on them at the primary, but shall continue to vote on them at the election. Of course the logical conclusion is that they shall cease to vote on them at either.

There is no reason why these minor administrative offices should be elective at all.

They are not, in the national government. Nationally, we elect the president and Congress, and nobody else.

In the states, we should likewise elect the governor and legislature, and nobody else. Similarly in the local governments.

Once adopt the short ballot, and the direct primary will be a success.

With the long ballot, any system is a failure. The Tribune's scheme is really a proposal to make these offices appointive, but to give the appointing power to irresponsible party organizations, instead of the the responsible governor.

If they are to be appointed at all, the governor should do the appointing. If they are to be elective, they should remain so in the primary as well as the election.

We are moving at dizzy speed. Perhaps 5000 people heard Wilson's inaugural address. Harding, by using an amplifier, was heard by 125,000. Now Coolidge, over the radio, was heard by 25,000,000. That is a gain of 500,000 per cent in eight years.

The next thing may be to broadcast the debates of Congress. Then watch for revolution! What is now mercifully buried in the Congressional Record will be spread to the four winds for all to hear. Either Congress will reform, or the people will rise in their might to reform it. The one place where guff doesn't go is over the radio.

REAL PUBLIC DOESN'T WANT IT

The refusal of a New York actress to go on with a nasty part has brought the issue of obscene plays to a crisis.

"We have to do it," say the managers. "The public demands it." Well, the real public will see to it that that part of the public does not get it.

Unless the managers show themselves capable of cleaning up, the censor will do it for them. And censorship is the last thing in the world the theater should invite.

The censor is always arbitrary, rarely artistic, and usually stupid. Nobody wants him. But art does not have to be indecent, and, in this country, it is not going to be permitted to be so.

Unless the managers clean it up intelligently they must expect the censor to do it stupidly. There are worse evils than stupidity.

How much an ill word may embroil him!—Shakespeare.

In the past public health work has dealt more largely with problems that affect whole communities and countries. Water supplies, for example, have been purified, milk supplies have been made safe, sewerage has been properly disposed of, quarantine regulations have been employed and vaccination against certain diseases has been accomplished. Because of these things the average length of life is now three times what it used to be.

What are said to be the largest mooring buoys in the world are those off the Nauru and Ocean islands in the Pacific.

"Have you any shoes with very loud squeaks in them."

The folks in the Land-of-Bear-Knows-Where didn't know whether or not to ask Buster Bear to Mrs. Bunny's party.

"Wed better take a vote on it," said Old Daddy Cracknuts wisely. "Because if Buster took a notion he could do a lot of damage and smash up the whole party."

"That's right!" agreed Mister Prickles Porcupine. "We'll take a vote in it and see if Buster has enough friends to get him in."

So they called a meeting and passed around papers and everybody wrote in "yes" or "no" according to the way he felt about the bear boy coming.

There were more "yesses" than "noes" so it was decided that Buster was to come.

But Wally Woodchuck got up and said that he had one thing to say and that was that if Buster was to come it must be understood that none of his family was to come except Buster himself. Another thing—Buster would have to wear a pair of squeaky shoes.

"A pair of squeaky shoes!" cried everybody. "But why?"

"Because," said Wally Woodchuck firmly, "then we can all hear him coming, and after he comes we can hear every step he takes. I move that Buster Bear be allowed to come to Mrs. Bunny's birthday party if he brings a nice present and wears squeaky shoes."

Nobody knew exactly what he meant by saying that he "moved" all that about Buster, but when he said he had read it in the book of rules, they decided that is was important, and so Wally had his way.

Buster was asked to the surprise party and told what he had to do if he wanted to come.

"My, my!" said Mrs. Bear when to telephone to Mister Peg Leg, the she read the invitation. "I'll have to telephone Mister Peg Leg, the peddler, to come and help us out. It isn't often that my son has a chance to get into such high society. I'll buy him a new red necktie and a pair of squeaky shoes, and a nice present besides."

So she telephoned to Mister Bags who spoke to Doctor Snuffles who mentioned it to the postmaster, Mister Stamps, that if the little peddler man and the Twins came in for their mail, to please send him over at once.

When they got the message it didn't take them five minutes to go to the place where the bear family lived on the side of a hill.

"My, I do hope that Mrs. Bear will give me a big order," said Mister Peg Leg. "I'll not have to peddle much longer. I have almost enough money now to buy my peg leg. This one gets shorter and shorter every day."

They rang Mrs. Bear's door-bell and soon the little peddler man was showing her all his wares.

Mrs. Bear picked out a red and purple tie and a pair of white kid gloves for Buster to wear. "Have you any shoes with very loud squeaks in them?" she asked next.

Mister Peg Leg scratched his head. He had shoes but none with squeaks in them. He didn't know what to do. Just then he heard something over

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MAMIE KEELER, CONTINUED

I took you in, Mamie, more perhaps because I was lonesome and filled with self-pity than because you said you were hungry. I don't need to tell you at this time that I am a very selfish animal.

Do you remember how we scurried around and found something to eat? That was the beginning.

From being a poor little sick kitten, you became a gorgeous, playful, purring, sleek parlor cat.

From the first, Mamie, you were my exhaust. I only went to the apartment I took for you when I was drunk or tired—when I was in a state of silly self-pity. You were amusing. I told you the truth about myself. I told you I was a rotter and that some day I would leave you and go back to being respectable. I'm sending you my check for five thousand dollars and this is goodbye.

I would feel more of a cad than I do, but you do not love me any more than I love you. We were derelict ships. I have been picked up as salvage and I hope I am being towed into the port of decent men again. Don't try to write or see me. We are now sailing in totally different directions.

Telephone Message From Mamie Keeler to the Office of John Alden Prescott

"I would like to speak to Mr. Prescott."

"You say Mr. Prescott is not in the office. When will he be in?"

"You don't know? Please let me talk to someone who does know. I would like to speak to his secretary."

"Is this Mr. Prescott's secretary?"

"Will you please let me speak to Mr. Prescott?"

"Oh, you say he is not in town? When will he be back?"

"You are unsure."

"No, I'll not leave a message for him. I'll call him up."

"Have you any idea where he will be the middle of next week? It is quite important."

"Oh, at Atlantic City at the Traymore Hotel. Thank you. I will write him there."

"You are sure that he will be there by Wednesday? I want him to get the letter without fail."

"Thank you. If I do not catch him there I will call him up at his office the last of the week."

"No, it isn't necessary for me to leave my name."

TOMORROW—Letter from Mrs. Joseph Graves Hamlin to Mrs. Leslie Prescott.

The body is endowed with so much reserve power that it is often hard to discover the first signs of distress among the cells. On the other hand the earlier a bad condition is discovered and treated, the more complete and prompt is recovery. For this reason individuals will profit by having a careful physical examination by a competent physician at least annually. Physicians are exceedingly skillful nowadays, in detecting early signs of breakdowns in the human machine, thanks to the advancement in scientific knowledge and splendid medical colleges.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

by James Oliver Curwood
A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Baree, son of Kazan, a dog, and Gray Wolf, was nearly three weeks old when first he wandered away from home. His first adventure was a fight with an owl, in which both were badly torn and mauled. Growing hungry, he succeeded finally in catching a crayfish in a creek. Soon he came upon Waka-goo, a huge black bear, which puzzled him but which disappeared at his approach. Wandering through the forest Baree grew hungrier. The dog in him wanted to die but the wolf spark burned stronger.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

In the forests as well as in the great cities fate plays its changing and whimsical hand. If Baree had dragged himself in the timber half an hour later he would have died. He was too far gone now to hunt for crayfish or kill the weakest bird. But he came just as Sekoosew, the ermine—the most bloodthirsty little pirate of all the wild—was making a kill.

As Baree lay under his tree, Sekoosew was creeping on his prey. His game was a big fat spruce-hen standing under a thick et of black currant bushes. The ear of no living thing could have heard Sekoosew's movement. He was like a shadow—a gray dot here, a flash there, now hidden behind a stick no larger than a man's wrist, appearing for a moment, the next instant gone as completely as if he had not existed. Thus he approached from fifty feet to within three feet of the spruce-hen. That was his favorite striking distance. Unerringly he launched himself at the drowsy partridge's throat, and his needle-like teeth sank through feathers into flesh.

Sekoosew was prepared for what happened then. It always happened when he attacked Napanao, the wood-partridge. Her wings were powerful, and her first instinct when he struck was always that of flight. She rose straight up now with a great thunder of wings. Sekoosew lunged tight, his teeth buried deep in her throat, and his tiny, sharp claws clinging to her like hands. Through the air he whizzed with her, biting deeper and deeper, until a hundred yards from where that terrible death thing had fastened to her throat, Napanao crashed again to earth.

Where she fell was not ten feet from Baree. For a few moments he looked at the struggling mass of feathers in a daze, not quite comprehending that at last food was almost within his reach. Napanao was dying, but she still struggled convulsively with her wings. Baree rose stealthily, and after a moment in which he gathered all his remaining strength, he made a rush for her. His teeth sank into her breast—and not until then did he see Sekoosew. The ermine had raised his head from the death grip at the partridge's throat, and his savage little red eyes glared a single instant into Baree's. Here was something too big to kill, and with an angry squeak the ermine was gone. Napanao's wings relaxed, and the throbbing went out of her body. She was dead. Baree hung on until he was sure. Then he began his feast.

Baree ate a third of the partridge, and the remaining two-thirds he carried very carefully at the foot of the big spruce. Then he hurried down to the creek for a drink. The world looked very different to him now. After all, one's capacity for happiness depends largely on how deeply one has suffered. One's hard luck and misfortune form the measuring stick for future good luck and fortune. So it was with Baree. Forty-eight hours ago a full stomach would not have made him a tenth part as happy as he was now. Then his greatest longing was for his mother. Since then a still greater yearning had come into his life—for food. In a way it was fortunate for him that he had almost died of exhaustion and starvation, for his experience had helped to make a man of him—or a wolf-dog, just as you are of a mind to put it. He would miss his mother for a long time. But he would never miss her again as he had missed her yesterday, and the day before.

For another day and night Baree remained in the vicinity of his cache. When the last bone was picked, he moved on. He now entered a country where subsistence was no longer a perilous problem for him. It was a lynx country, and where there are lynx, there are also a great many rabbits. When the rabbits thin out, the lynx emigrate to better hunting grounds. As a snowshoe rabbit breeds all the summer through, Baree found himself in a land of plenty.

And this was straight into the trapping country of Pierrot, the halfbreed.

Pierrot, until two years ago, had believed himself to be one of the most fortunate men in the big wilderness. That was before La Mort Rouge—the Red Death—came. He was half French, and he had married a Cree chief's daughter, and in their log cabin on the Gray Loon they had lived for many years in great prosperity and happiness. Pierrot was proud of three things in this wild world of his: he was proud of Wyola, his royal-blooded wife, and he was proud of his daughter; and he was proud of his reputation as a hunter. Until the Red Death came, life was quite complete for him. It was then—two years ago—that the smallpox killed his princess-wife. He still lived in the little cabin on the Gray Loon, but he was a different Pierrot. The heart was sick in him. It would have died, had it not been for Nepeese, his daughter. His wife had named her Nepeese, which means the Willow. Nepeese had grown up like the willow, slender as a reed, with all her mother's wild beauty, and with a little of the French thrown in. She was sixteen, with great, dark, wonderful eyes, and hair so beautiful that an agent from Montreal passing that way had once tried to buy it. It fell in two shining braids, each as big as a man's wrist, almost to her knees. "Non, M'sieu," Pierrot had said, a cold glitter in his eyes as he saw what was in the agent's face. "It is not for harter."

Two days after Baree had entered his trapping ground, Pierrot came in from the forests with a troubled look in his face. "Something is killing off the young beavers," he explained to Nepeese, speaking to her in French. "It is a lynx or a wolf. Tomorrow—" He shrugged his thin shoulders, and smiled at her. "We will go on the hunt," laughed Nepeese happily, in her soft Cree.

When Pierrot smiled at her like that, and began with "Tomorrow," it always meant that she might go with him on the adventure he was contemplating.

Still another day later, at the end of the afternoon, Baree crossed the Gray Loon on a bridge of driftwood that had wedged between two trees. This was to the north. Just beyond the driftwood bridge there was a small open, and to the edge of this Baree paused to enjoy the last of the setting sun. As he stood motionless and listening, his tail drooping low, his ears alert, his sharp-pointed nose sniffing the new country to the north, there was not a pair of eyes in the forest that would not have taken him for a young wolf.

From behind a clump of young balsams, a hundred yards away, Pierrot and Nepeese had watched him come over the driftwood bridge. Now was the time, and Pierrot leveled his rifle. It was not until then that Nepeese touched his arm softly. Her breath came a little excitedly as she whispered: "Nootawe, let me shoot. I can kill him!"

With a low chuckle Pierrot gave the gun to her. He counted the whelp as already dead. For Nepeese, at that distance, could send a bullet into an inch square nine times out of ten. And Nepeese, aiming carefully at Baree, pressed steadily with her brown forefinger upon the trigger.

CHAPTER V

As the Willow pulled the trigger of her rifle, Baree sprang into the air. He felt the force of the bullet before he heard the report of the gun. It lifted him off his feet, and then sent him rolling over and over as if he had been struck a hideous blow with a club. For a flash he did not feel pain. Then it ran through him like a knife of fire, and with that pain the dog in him rose above the wolf, and he let out a wild outcry of puppyish yapping as he rolled and twisted on the ground.

Pierrot and Nepeese had stepped from behind the balsams, the Willows' beautiful eyes shining with pride at the accuracy of her shot. Instantly she caught her breath. Her brown fingers clutched at the barrel of her rifle. The chuckle of satisfaction died on Pierrot's lips as Baree's cries of pain filled the forest.

Mount Carroll Citizens Planning for Dog Pound

Mount Carroll, Ill.—Overrun with dogs, this town is to find relief through a measure adopted by a city council which establishes a pound, into which stray and ownerless animals, unlicensed, will be gathered, and if not rescued within three days put to death.

No other town of its size in northwestern Illinois is so plagued with mongrel dogs according to police, and the plan described has been adopted in the hope of getting rid of the surplus canines.

SENATE'S RULES
HURT EFFICIENCY,
DAWES DECLARED

led for Change in Rules in His Inaugural Address.

Washington.—(By The Associated Press.)—The inaugural speech of Vice President Dawes delivered Wednesday night.

"What I say upon entering this office should relate to its administration and the conditions under which it is administered. Unlike the vast majority of deliberative and legislative bodies, the Senate does not elect a presiding officer. He is designated (this duty by the constitution of the United States.

"In the administration of this office, his duty is to be concerned with the effective procedure, as distinguished from any legislative policy the body over which he presides. It is not for the vice president to be personally concerned with the internal politics of parties or with the policies or projects involved in legislative action, save in that unusual emergency where, under the constitution, it becomes necessary for him to cast the deciding vote in case of a tie.

"Nor should he, in view of that unusual contingency, assume any active role towards prospective legislation until the contingency occurs. Any course would inevitably lessen the weight of his influence in those partial and non-partisan matters in which it is his duty, under the constitution of the United States, to be concerned.

Declared for Fairness
"In my conduct, I trust I may yield no senator in fairness, courtesy and kindness in defense to those unspoken laws which always govern any association of gentlemen, whether of law or private.

"It shall be my purpose not to trespass in any way those limits to official activity determined by the constitution of the United States and proper parliamentary procedure. It is the Vice President, in part because he is not elected by the members of this body, nor by a state but by the people of the United States, and his institutional and official relations are the Senate as a whole, should always express himself upon the relations of its methods of transacting public business to the welfare of the nation.

"For him, therefore, to officially call the attention of the Senate any elective duty such as an improvement in the method under which its business is carried on, so far from being an irrelevant and uncalled for action on his part, is a supreme duty.

Power Sometimes Abused
"In past years, because the members of this body have cherished most commendable feelings of fairness, courtesy and consideration for each other as individuals, certain customs have been evolved. These have crystallized into fixed and written rules of procedure for the transaction of public business which, in their present form, place power in the hands of individuals to an extent, at times, subversive to the fundamental principles of free representative government. Whatever may be said about the misuse of this power under the present rules of the Senate, the fact remains at its existence, inimical as it is to the principles of our constitutional government, cannot properly be charged against any party, nor against any individual or group of individuals. It is evolved as a natural consequence of the mutual confidence of high-minded men, determined that in their official association as members of the Senate full and free opportunity to be heard on all public questions shall be enjoyed by each and every senator irrespective of whether or not they are in the minority, either of opinion or of party.

Peoples' Rights Overlooked
"But, however natural has been the evolution of the present rules, however commendable that existing desire on the part of all that the rights of each individual senator should be observed, the fact remains that under them the rights of the nation and of the American People have been overlooked—and this, notwithstanding their full recognition of the rights of the nation and in violation of the recognition of every essential right of any individual senator.

"What would be the attitude of the American people and of the individual senators themselves toward a proposed system of rules if this was the first session of the Senate of the United States instead of the 69th. What individual senator would then have the audacity to propose the adoption of the present rule 22 without modification when it would be pointed out that during the last days of the session, the right that is granted every senator to be heard for one hour after two thirds of the Senate had agreed to bring a measure to a vote, at times power to defeat the measure and render impotent the Senate itself. That rule which at times enables senators to consume in oratory those last precious minutes of a session needed for momentous decisions, places in the hands of one or of a minority of senators, a greater power than the veto power exercised under the constitution by the President of the United States which is limited in its effectiveness by the necessity of an affirmative two-thirds vote.

Who Will Defend Rule?
"Who would dare to contend that under the spirit of democratic government, the power to kill legislation providing the revenues to pay the expenses of government should, in the last few days of a session, ever be in the hands of a minority or perhaps one senator. Why should they ever be able to compel the president of the United States to call an extra session of Congress to keep in functioning activity the machinery of the government itself? Who would dare oppose any changes in the rules necessary to insure that the business of the United States should always be conducted in the interests of the nation and never be in danger of encountering a situation where one man or a minority of men might demand unreasonable concessions under threat of blocking the business of the government. Who would dare maintain that in the last analysis, the right of the Senate itself to act should ever be subordinated to the right of one senator to make a speech.

Senate's Greater Right
"The rules can be found, as is the custom in other deliberative and legislative assemblies, to fully protect a senator in his rights to be heard without forfeiting at any time the greater right of the Senate to act. The constitution of the United States gives the Senate and House of Representatives the right to adopt their own rules for the conduct of business, but this does not excuse customs and rules which under certain conditions, may put the power of the Senate itself in the hands of individuals to be used in legislative barter.

Lessen Effectiveness
"Under the inexorable laws of hu-

ARZEN
COLDS
At the Start

man nature and human reaction, this system of rules, if unchanged, cannot but lessen the effectiveness, prestige and dignity of the United States Senate. Were this the first session of the Senate and its present system of rules, unchanged, should be presented seriously for adoption, the impact of outraged public opinion, reflected in the attitude of the senators themselves, would crush the proposal like an egg shell. Reform in the present rules of the Senate is demanded not only by American public opinion, but I venture to say by the individual consciences of a majority of the members of the Senate itself.

"As it is the duty on the part of the presiding officer of the Senate to call attention to defective methods in the conduct of business by the body over which he presides, so, under their constitutional power, is it the duty of the members of this body to correct them. To evade or ignore an issue between right and wrong methods is in itself a wrong. To the performance of this duty—a duty which is nonpartisan—a duty which is sectional—a duty which is alone in the interest of the nation, we have sworn to faithfully serve—I ask the consideration of the Senate, appealing to the conscience and to the patriotism of the individual members."

1923—Became President upon the death of President Harding.
1924—Elected President by largest plurality in history.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Calvin Coolidge became the 30th President of the United States on August 3, 1923, through the death of President Harding, and today became the second man in the history of the republic to be inaugurated chief executive in his own right after having been elevated directly from the vice-presidency to the nation's highest office. The other so honored was Theodore Roosevelt.

The chief executive of the nation for the next four years was born on Independence Day, 1872, on a farm that lies hedged in by the Green Mountains on the outskirts of the little village of Plymouth, Vermont. His ancestors settled in Massachusetts in 1630. John Coolidge, now in his 73rd year, still lives on the farm, and it was in the farm house that Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office upon the death of President Harding. His mother, Victoria Moor Coolidge, died when he was 13 years old.

Graduate of Amherst
Mr. Coolidge received his education in the common schools, at Black River Academy at Ludlow, Vermont, 12 miles from Plymouth, and still Plymouth's nearest railroad point, at St. Johnsbury Academy, and at Amherst College, from which he was graduated in 1895 after four years in which he attracted no more attention than any hard-working student, unless it was by his silence.

His college course finished, Mr. Coolidge returned to his father's farm for a summer's work and in the fall started to study law at Northampton, Mass., since then his home. He was admitted to the bar soon after he became 23 years of age. Two years later he was elected to his first office, city councilman of Northampton, and put his foot on the lowest rung of the ladder that he climbed upward through the offices of state representative, mayor of Northampton, state senator, president of the senate, and lieutenant governor to the governorship, and from there to the vice presidency and finally to the Presidency.

While progressing upward on this political ladder, he married Grace Anna Goodhue, a graduate of the University of Vermont and then a teacher in the Clark School for the Deaf at Northampton. Two sons were born, John, now 15 years of age and in his first year at Amherst, and Calvin, Jr., whose death last July at the age of 16 brought a sorrow that still hangs over the White House.

His Only Defeat
The wedding of Calvin Coolidge and Grace Goodhue led to Mr. Coolidge's only political defeat. Before leaving Northampton for Burlington, where the wedding took place, Mr. Coolidge came out as a candidate for the school board. Thinking his prospects of election were more than good, he let the matter fade into the background. At the last moment a third candidate entered the lists, and after Mr. Coolidge's honeymoon it was too late for him to withdraw from a hopeless three-cornered contest. The democrat was elected.

The Boston police strike which occurred while Mr. Coolidge was serving his second term as governor brought him before the country with his declaration "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time." Some say this labor disturbance made Calvin Coolidge.

idge; his closest friends and admirers assert it merely revealed him.
At any rate, within ten months after the strike, when the Republican National Convention assembled in Chicago, he had the support of the Massachusetts delegation for President and received scattering votes from other states. When Warren G. Harding emerged as the Presidential nominee, it appeared that Mr. Coolidge's sun had reached its meridian, for party leaders agreed on Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin for the Vice Presidency. An Oregon delegate, however, offered the name of Mr. Coolidge, and the Massachusetts man swept the convention.
As Vice President Mr. Coolidge attracted little attention although he was the first Vice President to sit with the cabinet, and when that fateful August night in 1923 came he emerged from comparative obscurity to take over the most powerful office in the world. Few party leaders thought then that he would succeed himself, but in the few months that preceded the Republican convention of last June at Cleveland he developed a following that won for him hands down, and the American electorate in November gave him the largest popular vote in history.

Chrysler engineers have built into the new good Maxwell, performance so definitely superior that you must properly seek comparison in cars far above its price class.

The same engineering and manufacturing genius which in the Chrysler Six produced results heretofore unknown, has now in the good Maxwell scored its second great triumph.

Here, in the simple, economical four-cylinder principle, has been attained a degree of speed, power, flexibility and quick acceleration which literally amazes those used to paying a high premium for comparable performance.

Thus the great Maxwell organization and its wonderful plants have brought within the buying-ability of new thousands, unequaled pick-up and all the speed at which a man will care to drive—long life and a distinguished exterior which wins sincere admiration.

To produce such a car at the astonishingly low Maxwell prices is possible only with such complete and splendid manufacturing facilities as Maxwell's.

Balloon tires, natural wood wheels, stop-light, transmission lock, Duo finish standard on all Maxwell models. Shrouded visor integral with roof, heater, standard on all closed models.

NOW CLAIM BONES FOUND IN WRECK WERE NOT HUMAN

Said to Have Been in Meat Lost By Passen- gers on Cars.

"Human Bones" Coroner Holds

"I don't care if they carried a whole hog," said Dr. E. A. Diestelmeier, Stephenson county coroner, when told of the rumor that the bones and flesh found in the wrecked interurban cars were human. "I don't care if they carried a whole hog," said Dr. E. A. Diestelmeier, Stephenson county coroner, when told of the rumor that the bones and flesh found in the wrecked interurban cars were human. "I don't care if they carried a whole hog," said Dr. E. A. Diestelmeier, Stephenson county coroner, when told of the rumor that the bones and flesh found in the wrecked interurban cars were human.

Rockford.—Mystery of the bones and charred flesh found in the debris of the R. & I. cars following a head-on collision February 22, in which a motorman lost his life and 13 persons were injured was believed to have been solved in the discovery that one passenger carried a chicken and another a pork loin and a section of a pork hock.

Shel Smith, claim agent for the Rockford and Interurban Railway company, started an investigation of the report that Mrs. Frank Caldwell, Peoria, and Mrs. Joseph B. Scott, Freeport, passengers on the west-bound car, were carrying parcels containing chicken and pork.

Both are reported to have boarded the westbound car at Peoria, where a collision occurred a few miles west of the station.

Find No Person Missing.

Discovery of some bones and a charred piece of flesh following the collision and fire, which was followed by the Stephenson county coroner and four Freeport physicians to be human bones and flesh, gave rise for the theory that more than one person met death in the collision.

A country-wide search has been instituted by Stephenson county authorities for missing persons in an effort to identify the supposed second wreck victim.

Only One Perished?

Eugene Wiler, Peoria station agent for the R. & I. lines, today notified officials of the electric railway that he had learned Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Caldwell were carrying parcels containing the chicken and pork when they boarded the car.

Interurban company officials have declined to accept the theory of Stephenson county authorities that the collision claimed a second victim.

Human Bones, Doctors Say.

Bones found in the debris, turned over to the Stephenson county coroner, however, were said to have been positively identified by five Freeport physicians as pieces of a skull, a rib, leg and hip bones of a human body. The charred piece of flesh, perfumed by the fire, was identified by the same authorities as the lower part of a human leg.

No Odor of Burning Flesh.

Otis Hill, superintendent of the R. & I. North shops, who served in front line trenches during the world war, stated that no one, who has ever been exposed to the odor of burning human flesh would ever mistake it again.

Persons at the wreck during the fire declared there was no odor except that of burning wood and oil.

KELLOGG 2ND SEC. OF STATE FROM THE WEST

Hughes Successor Has Had Fine Record of Service.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

For the second time in all the history of the nation a man who hails from west of the Mississippi has been named for secretary of state. He is Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, chosen to succeed Charles E. Hughes upon his retirement at noon today. William Jennings Bryan was the only other secretary to come from west of the great river.

But Mr. Kellogg might be called a transplanted easterling. He was born in New York state, went to Minnesota at the age of nine, grew up on a farm, began law work at $150 a year, and then ascended in his profession until he became a special counsel for the government in the Standard Oil and other trust cases, a member of the United States senate, and ambassador to Great Britain. All this he did with the benefit of a college education.

Mr. Kellogg's first public service was as attorney for Rochester, Minn., followed by a five year period as county attorney of Olmsted county. In the course of time he attracted the attention of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis.

At Davis' death Kellogg was the head, came into being in St. Paul.

Became "Trust Buster"

On his entry into the St. Paul law firm in 1887, Mr. Kellogg secured the position of legal adviser to the railroad industry, but his connection with railroad litigation led to his selection by President Roosevelt as special prosecutor in anti-trust cases. In that capacity he earned for himself the title of "trust buster," leading the government's legal forces in the fight first against the paper trust, then for the dissolution of the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific combination, and finally against the Standard Oil Company.

His success with these cases landed him in the United States Senate in 1901 and in his six years' service he played an important part in the framing of railroad legislation and worked for ratification of the treaty of Versailles, standing with the mild reservation group of his party.

Senator LeFollette stumped Minnesota in opposition to Kellogg's re-election, and he was beaten by Henrik Shipstead, the Farm Labor nominee.

Made Ambassador

Meanwhile President Harding's death had moved the presidential office of the Senate into the White House. Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Coolidge had formed a close friendship, and when George Harvey resigned as ambassador to London, Mr. Kellogg was selected his successor.

During his service of a little more than a year in the British capital, Mr. Kellogg played an important role during the London conference on reparations and more recently at the Paris conference, convened to allot the Daves' plan annuities. His signature of the agreement growing out of this conference led to an explosion in the Senate which has not yet subsided.

Mr. Kellogg passed his sixty-eighth birthday last December 22.

Bodily resistance is lowered by too much work, too much worry, too much dissipation, too little exercise, too little food, too little sleep, too little fresh air and sunshine. After the strain of a long cold winter, the bodily resistance is more easily lowered than at other seasons of the year.

Lubricating oils for the railroads of those regions are being obtained by distilling the bituminous limestones that are found abundantly in Syria and Palestine.

If You Need a Medicine
You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited by those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take, for example, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose 10 cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

STANDARDIZATION OF SCHOOL BOOKS PURPOSE OF BILL

Legislators Interested in Proposal of Representative Michael Fahy.

Springfield, March 5.—(By The Associated Press)—Standardization of the textbooks used in Illinois public schools is the purpose of a bill introduced in the house by Rep. Michael Fahy, Telusca.

Although school legislation is being held in abeyance pending the report of the state school commission, which is expected in a week or two, considerable interest has been expressed in Fahy's bill by other members of the general assembly.

Fahy's bill provides for the appointment of a state school book commission of seven members of which the director of the department of registration and education would be an ex-officio member and the remaining six would be appointed by the governor. Of these six, one would be the president of a state teachers college or normal school, two superintendents of county schools, two superintendents of city schools and one a teacher actively engaged in a public or private school in the state. The appointed members would hold office for two years.

Duties of Commission

The duties of the commission are outlined as follows:

1. Investigate the courses of study in the elementary schools.

2. Investigate the merits of all text books now used in such courses and such other text books as are available.

3. Examine manuscripts available for use as text books and compare them with the text books now in use.

4. Recommend to the director of registration and education what text books or manuscripts should be purchased and advise him as to the best persons to do that work.

5. Recommend to the director of registration and education what new textbooks or manuscripts should be prepared and advise him as to the best persons to do that work.

Pursuant to these recommendations the director of registration and education would be charged with the duty of adopting a complete set of text books for use in the schools and of purchasing or having printed all of the books needed to supply elementary pupils throughout the state. He is given the authority to purchase the books from publishing companies, or having the right to have them published or "otherwise procure" them for use in the schools.

Would Standardize Books

The number of books to be bought or published would be determined by a survey to ascertain the number of pupils in the schools and the systems throughout the state would be required to purchase their requirements from the state and the list adopted by the director of registration and education would be standard throughout Illinois although school boards would be permitted to purchase such other books as might be advisable for use as reference works or for supplemental study. The books would be supplied to local school districts at cost, plus transportation charges, and all transactions would be on a cash basis.

Stipulation is made that when a textbook is adopted as standard no change shall be made for three years and special penalties are provided for persons who unlawfully seek to influence the school book commission in its selection of textbooks to be recommended to the director for adoption by the state as standard. The maximum penalty is a fine of $5,000 and five years imprisonment.

Whenever possible, according to the terms of the bill, the state will publish the books in its own printing establishments and the state superintendent of printing is charged with responsibility for that work.

An appropriation of $100,000 to carry out its terms is provided for in the bill.

"I feel that the cause of education in Illinois will be benefited and the cost of school textbooks materially reduced if this bill is adopted," said Fahy. "At present one school district uses a certain type of books and the district next to it uses another. There is no uniformity. By contracting for the needs of the entire state it would be possible to get a rock bottom price and thereby save money for all school districts and consequently for the tax payer."

Read Lk. 5:27-39. Text 5:32. I am not come to call the righteous but sinners to repentance.

MEDITATION.—In this declaration Christ defined his mission. He came, not only to associate with the good and to enjoy the fellowship of congenial friends, but also to seek those who most needed his ministry. It is always hard to spend time with unlovely people; it is taxing to minister to the sick; it is dangerous to be with the wicked; but Jesus followed the only true method of service—to go where he was needed and to do what would be of great help. Sin distressed him, but he went to them that he might do them good. To follow Jesus here is part of the cost as well as the joy of discipleship.

"What shall I do to gain eternal life?"

"Discharge aright the simple duties with which each day is rife."

Yes, with this might."

The Sunday School basketball tournament, conducted by the physical department of the Y, completed its schedule of games last evening with the Christian and Methodist teams winning their games, which leaves these teams in a tie for first place in order to determine the championship of the Sunday Schools of the city this tie will be played off next Wednesday evening immediately following the weekly supper and class session of the Sunday School classes.

Last evening's games were not too good as both the winning teams ran into soft snags. The Methodists winning from the Lutherans by forfeit and the Christians romping over the Brethren 21-1.

Junior Players to Have Banquet Friday Evening

Friday evening at 6 o'clock in the boys' department all Juniors who have attended gym class during the past season will gather for a big supper to celebrate the successful closing of four basketball tournaments, two of the A's and two of the B's. At this time all members who played two or more games for the following teams will receive letters, a green Y if a "J" and a blue if an "A." Rivet Slingers, Co. "A" Juniors, Wild Cats and Black Sox. Every Junior who played in any of the 16 games in these tournaments should be present Friday evening to enjoy the fun. A session in the gym and swimming pool will follow the supper.

Pin Splitters Winners Over Yomechans Bowlers

The Pin Splitters defeated the Yomechans by 28 pins in the Boys' Bowling tournament at the Y. Wednesday afternoon the scores being 1764 and 1736. The Maple Kutters are so far leading in this tournament although the Pin Splitters are close on their heels.

Christian Bowlers Won from Standard Oil Team

The Christian Church bowling team again won their tournament match, this time from the Standard Oil by 12 pins. Although the Standards won two of the three games and were improving rapidly with each contest, the Christians got too much of a head start in the first round to be overcome.

Augustana College to Welcome Investigation

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Rock Island, Ill., March 5.—"We welcome an investigation at Augustana," declared Arthur V. Swedberg, director of athletics, at the Lutheran college, commenting on the reports from Peoria, yesterday, regarding the alleged ineligibility of Robley Biehl, basketball guard of Rock Island. Biehl is said to have appeared in several professional games after entering college.

Swedberg, who is also basketball coach at Augustana and chairman of the eligibility committee of the "Little Nineteen" conference, stated that he and his school would be glad to cooperate with conference officials in unearthing information concerning the cagers in question. The other men whose status is questioned according to the Peoria dispatch are Louis Semeny, captain last year of the Elgin high school five, and Fred Kolberg of Rockford high school.

Robley Biehl is a resident of Rock Island and played several games with the Athletic Shop quintet, a local amateur team. The Athletic Shop team is considered an amateur organization as the players pay their own expenses and purchase their own uniforms and equipment. Biehl has played only part of the games with Augustana but if the charges are upheld by the board at these games which resulted in victories for Augustana will be forfeited.

The charge against Biehl will probably be investigated by the eligibility committee, of which Swedberg is chairman. Swedberg will not act in the Biehl case, but will leave the matter to the other members of the board he stated.

Elephant's Tusk Found in Excavation at Bloomington

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)
Bloomington, Ill., March 5.—The tusk of a huge animal of the elephant family was brought to light by excavators working at the foot of the new bridge over Sugar Creek, being built by the Alton Railroad at Funk's Grove. It was picked up by Elmo Shepherd and brought to the McLean State Bank where it is on exhibition.

The tusk no doubt belongs to a mammoth and it is of ivory, two and a half feet long and 21 inches in circumference or about 7 inches in diameter.

Palestine is equal in area to the state of Vermont.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Slam-Down Hat

"And never the twain shall meet"—town and country. Drawing a line of demarcation between town clothes and country clothes is the mark of the man who knows best, as distinguished from the man who should know better. It's right enough to look rugged, and athletic and all that sort of thing, but it is more important to wear the proper thing for its particular place and purpose. That is the racial characteristic of the Englishman. That is what has given him a fame that girdles the globe.

That is what preserves the position of English styles, when, in point of fact, the American, as an individual, instead of a type, is really better-dressed. Unless we learn to suit the fashion to time, occasion and circumstance, as they do abroad, we will always lag behind in style which is brother to good form.

The slam-down felt hat of the sort pictured in the accompanying sketch, that is, with brim reversed, is primarily, yes, wholly, a field, country and knockabout style. It was introduced for golf and sports in what are known as featherweight felts. It was never designed for town, lounge and business usage. Off the course, it is 'way out of its course. The slam-down felt is just as incongruous on city streets as knickerbockers or white cricket cloth trousers would be.

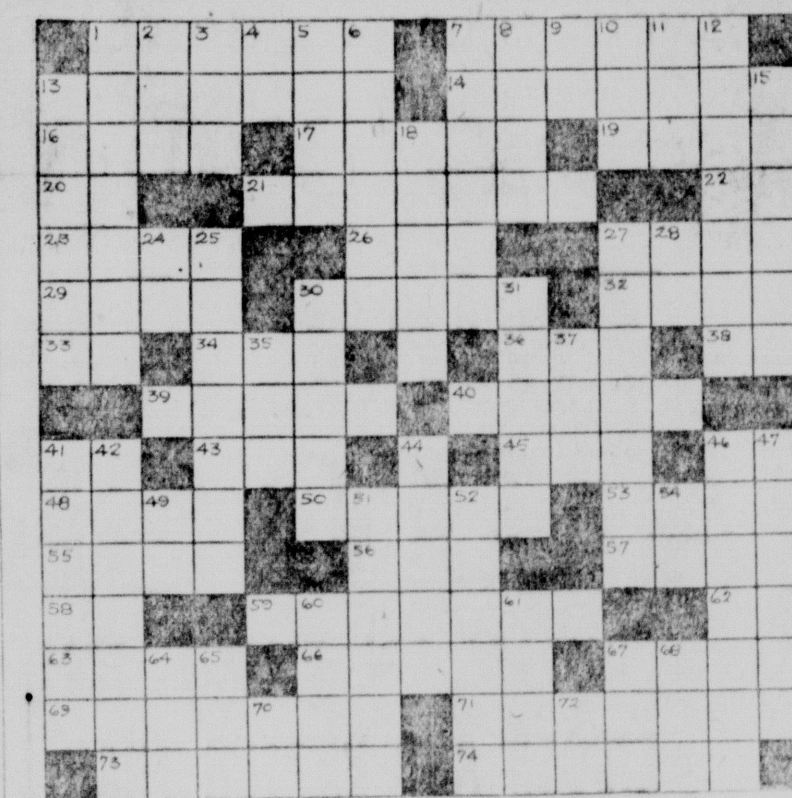

The fundamental distinction of the gentleman (in the social significance, of course, for any one may be a gentleman in the higher sense) is that he not only knows what to wear, but also when and where to wear it. He keeps town and country; formal dress and informal dress firmly apart. He doesn't expect one lone-some hat to render all-round service. He possesses enough hats to meet the obligation of every occasion, from the golf course to the course dinner.

So, wear your slam-down felt hat—and you should own one this Spring—where it belongs—out in the open, playing golf or dawdling about the country. In town, wear the style with the brim turned up, either creased only lengthwise through the center or also dented at the sides, just as you prefer. But—be correct. Avoid criticism. Keep your hats to their prescribed place and purpose. That's The Well-Dressed Man.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ALDEN DRAKE, formerly a sailor, grown soft and flabby through a life of idle ease, ships aboard the clipper Orontes as "boy," under the command of—

JAKE STEVENS, whose enmity he quickly incurs because of a mutual love for—

MARY MANNING, daughter of the owner, who is a passenger. At Cape Town, Stevens is arrested as captain by Drake, whose lawyers have seen to the purchase of the Orontes during its cruise. Stevens is reduced to the rank of chief mate.

The Orontes, due partly to Jake's disobedience of orders, is becalmed in the Straits of Java. Mary slips away from the ship with Jake, the steward, and later Jake goes to join her ashore. Then a rebellious crew follows them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was another lot of men who growled and shirked; Tubbs and Slims led in the growling as in the slacking; and they had been forced to sling cargo in the hold all the last afternoon.

"Some chaps is born slaves, an' some ain't," remarked Tubbs darkly. Pines were glowing. No word had come yet about that midnight turning out. That was policy. The mate knew the men would get more comfort out of their food and tobacco if permitted to enjoy them in the expectation of all night in. But Bill Gadgett was a humorist. In a fashion. He remembered occasions when some of the men had been less respectful than they might have been. He started his pipe burning, and strolled across to the forecastle door, in which he appeared quite casually as Tubbs laid down the opinion amidst a sullen rumble of approval.

"Then as ought to know, has got out, ain't they? There's gobs to be some dead sailors in this 'bunker afore she gets off. A bloody dood as burs ships to work poor sailors to death ain't no sort to sell ships. Look at th' bleedin' rats, too! Scores of 'em come out of the hatch when we was—"

"Aye yer smoke an' turn in early, me lads," cut in Bill Gadgett tartly, as if he had heard nothing.

"It's all 'nads again at midnight. There's a skipper in this ship, me sons, an' don't yer forget it!"

"All 'nads? Wot the—?" Some body jumped up and started to shout; but the hoarse had gone as casually as he had appeared, leaving a trail of reeking smoke behind him not half as bitter and hot as the words that followed him.

The sailors sat on their sea chests or bunks and glared at each other dumbly. Some of the workers looked mutinous. Tubbs and Slims drew off to their own side of the forecastle and talked hoity; one by one their cronies joined them. Soon that side was buzzing with fierce, hoarse, whispered argument. On the other side, Joe Bunting and Nick Coombs turned slowly and faced each other. Joe removed his pipe and let it hang between finger and thumb. His lips were parted. Nick took his pipe out and rubbed the hot bowl gently against his nose. Thus they stared into each other's faces. For a full minute without a word they remained; then each turned deliberately, lifted his legs into his bunk, and lay down to get what rest he might.

One by one the others of that watch followed their example in all except the matters of the pipes and the silence. Then Bill Gadgett reappeared for an eloquent second, barked out as if he wanted the job done quickly: "Your anchor watch, Tubbs!" and vanished again.

Very surprisingly, there was no abusive protest.

"All right, Boss," Tubbs called out promptly, and entered into his argument again. Men on the other side of the forecastle waited in expectation of some outburst. None came. They rolled over to sleep. The multiplied excitedly.

"Gone? Nonsense!" snapped Drake. He glanced at the boat still hanging in the davits. Twining and Adams ran down to the dim waist and peered at the men standing in the shadows of the piled cargo.

"Shall I muster the men, sir? Seems to be most of a watch drift."

"Get lanterns on deck. Then sheet home and—"

"Most of the hatches is gone from forward, sir!" reported Chips. "They must ha' took 'em and sawm for it, sir."

"Which 'splains why Tubbs never hollered at anchor watch!" said Joe Bunting loudly. Drake heard all, but his mind was upon the tide. Some men who had heard the beginning of his last order were waiting for its completion in a state of satiation.

"Never mind," he snapped. "Sheet home."

The human body is made up of a multitude of minute cells. In a healthy person each of these performs a definite function, each must be fed and nourished, each must be re-created. Disease germs excrete matter that is poisonous to these cells. The blood carries the poison from the point where the germs are located to every cell in the body. That causes the cells to leave off some of their regular duties and start a fight against the poison. This situation gives a person that unhappy feeling described by the word "sick." When all the cells have to fight hard against some poison they create an excessive amount of heat, resulting in a general rise in the temperature of the body, called fever.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5—You will have a good business head if today is your birthday. Your success, however, will come through hard work and not through "get-rich-quick" methods. You will take a great interest in all kinds of sports and will be to good health as the result of constant exercise. If a woman, you will not be "crazy" about clothes and yet you will always appear well dressed. You will make a good housewife and probably will marry young.

New Way to Quickly Stop Dangerous Cough

It is almost criminally careless not to properly attend a persistent cough, which by seriously weakening the system lays you open to far more dangerous infections. For by a very simple treatment you can stop the coughing spells almost instantly and often relieve the stubbornest cough in 24 hours.

This simple treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with any liquid. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and breaks up the inflamed membrane, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief of the heaviest cough seems almost magical.

The prescription is highly recommended for croup, chest colds, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no opiates or other harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for home and hold main and mizzen topsails, and loose the inner jib. Chips! See the starboard anchor all clear for letting go."

Chips stared up into the darkness again. The order sounded like the raving of a madman. Didn't this queer captain realize his ship was ashore? Others muttered, too. Even Mr. Adams whispered to Mr. Twining that he had always believed there was something funny about the Old Man's eyes.

"All the anchors and chains is aft, sir, except the kedge out to the hawser astern," stammered Chips.

"Never mind it, then. We'll swing to the kedge," Drake retorted. "Get those sails set, smartly! Mister Twining, take some men to the capstan and keep a strain. And you lads get aloft and overhaul the topsail gear. Lively now!"

As he spoke, Alden Drake heard rebellious voices. He coolly ignored them. The apprentices and the men left to Mr. Adams dragged listlessly at the ropes, in spite of the lusty shouting of Adams. Drake swung off his jacket. He ran to the helm, hauled it handshakes, and then took the poop ladder at a leap and appeared among the men at the main topsail halliards. The hawser stretched along the deck began to sing and creak to the clacking of capstan sails forward.

"Come, lads! We're sailormen, aren't we? Don't tell me we can't pull this ship off the beach just because a few yellow curs run away with tails down! You there, Bunting! Start a tune, my lad! The ship only needs a good pull and a breath of wind!" Drake leaped on to the starboard rail, and reached high up the topsail halliards as he spoke. There was a stir among the sullen men. One of the boys shrilled a cheer. Joe Bunting cleared his wheezy throat noisily, and yelled right manfully: "Ho, a long time ago an' the world was begun!"

And like a gathering storm the chorus howled.

"Hey, ho, th' wind an' the rain!" "An' they builded a ship for th' Java run!" bawled Joe. The storm fell full on the next line.

"Hey, ho, it raineth every day!" There was no doubt about it. The heavy yard was going up smartly. Drake pulled through one more verse.

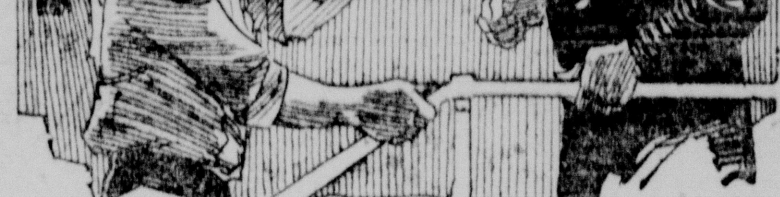

"Ho, th' captain reckoned wrong, for he'd quite forgot th' date!" bellowed Joe, daringly improving.

"Hey, ho, the wind and the rain!" "So 'e stuck 'is ship ashore in th' bloomin' Sunder Strait!"

And how they thundered that last line!

"Hey, ho, it raineth every day!" Drake laughed and leaped from the rail. There was no more fear that the men would shirk. Little Joe Bunting had dared much, and had made Alden Drake his debtor for life. Drake ran forward. If he could put the same ginger into that gang as Bunting had into the halliard crowd, his ship was as good as afloat.

(To Be Continued)

"AIE, THE MAN'S GORN, SIR!" HE CRIED EXCITEDLY.

cried excitedly.

"Gone? Nonsense!" snapped Drake. He glanced at the boat still hanging in the davits. Twining and Adams ran down to the dim waist and peered at the men standing in the shadows of the piled cargo.

"Shall I muster the men, sir? Seems to be most of a watch drift."

 1917—Commissioned Lieutenant Colonel in the world war and rose to be Brigadier General in charge of purchases for the American Expeditionary Forces.
 1924—Appointed Director of the Budget.
 1925—Chosen head of reparations experts committee that framed the Dawes plan.
 1926—Elected Vice-President.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
 Red tape, pink toes and every shade of form of red are anathema to Charles G. Dawes, banker, soldier, author, composer and reparations expert, who today prefixed his name with the title of Vice President of the United States.
 When he sees red he can talk in a blue streak.
 "Hell Martin" says General Dawes is reported to have said before the congressional committee as he defended America's conduct of the war. That expletive has been connected with his name ever since.
 As an outspoken man of action, Dawes' friends described him as a new type of American leader in politics. His campaign for the Vice Presidency was marked by attacks on

LEAVING THE WHITE HOUSE

This photo received by NEA Service and the Evening Telegraph over wires of the Bell Telephone system from Washington, shows President and Mrs. Coolidge leaving the White House with Senator Curtis for the inauguration ceremony. By this new invention for transmitting pictures electrically the photo reached San Francisco and principal intermediate points seven minutes after it had been taken.

"pussyfooters" and "political straddlers."
 When Frank O. Lowden, Illinois war governor, was being urged for the Republican Vice-Presidential nomination, Dawes' friends wanted it for him. Dawes said "Nominate Lowden." Lowden was nominated but refused to accept and the Cleveland convention then turned to Dawes. The news reached him at Marietta, Ohio, where he was attending his Alma Mater's commencement week, and he made this characteristically brief statement:

"I accept the nomination by the Republican party for the Vice-Presidency. I deeply appreciate the honor conferred upon me."

Dawes' last previous national service was as first director of the national budget to which he was appointed by President Harding. The President signed blank executive orders which Dawes needed only to fill out to make effective, and his budget making reduced expenditures $250,000,000.

As a lieutenant colonel of railway engineers Dawes went to France and was a brigadier general in charge of purchases for the American Expeditionary Forces. He got guns and horses for the American soldiers by cutting red tape. In his "Hell Martin" testimony before the congressional committee in 1921, Dawes said the diplomats "were all tangled up in their red tape," and "there was too much pink tea business."

Mr. Dawes' most signal service, which made his name known internationally, took place in 1924 when he headed the reparations experts committee chosen to bring order out of chaos in the reparations impasse. In the Dawes plan he and his associates substituted business control for political and military dictation.

General Dawes' "upside down" pipe became famous and was used as a campaign emblem. He never goes without it, and his friends say it will repose in his pocket as he presides over the Senate.

Illustrous Forebears.

Among his forebears was William Dawes who rode with Paul Revere the night before Lexington and Concord. The new Vice President is the son of General Rufus R. Dawes and was born August 27, 1865, at Marietta, Ohio. In the Civil War his father raised a company at Madison, Wis., and rose rapidly in the famous "Iron Brigade."

Charles G. Dawes was graduated from Marietta College and Cincinnati Law School, and put out his shingle in Lincoln, Neb., in 1885. There he became acquainted with John J. Pershing, William Jennings Bryan and the latter's brother, Charles W. Bryan, who was Dawes' Democratic opponent for the Vice-Presidency last November.

It has been said that the young lawyer borrowed the money with which he returned to Cincinnati and married Caro D. Bymer on January 24, 1889. In Lincoln he became a public utility counselor, afterward removing his offices to Chicago and his home to Evanston, Illinois, when he became president of the Northwestern Gas Light and Coke Company, which was later acquired by the company.

 In 1912 Dawes' only son, Rufus Fearing Dawes, a Princeton student, was drowned at Lake Geneva, Wis., and a tribute written by the father was read at the funeral and afterward reprinted in hundreds of thousands of copies by the Young Men's Christian Association. A daughter, Carolyn, lives in Chicago.

Hanna Noticed Him.
 In 1896 Dawes attracted the attention of Mark Hanna, and became manager of the Illinois campaign for McKinley, who appointed him comptroller of the currency. Afterward he returned to Chicago and founded the Central Trust Company of Illinois, of which he has been chairman of the board for several years.
 Dawes is a devotee of music and literature. Several years ago he composed his "Melody in A Major," which critics found meritorious. Back in Lincoln, Neb., he wrote a book: "The Banking System of the United States."

He and Mrs. Dawes are especially devoted to their home and two charming adopted children, Dana, 12, and Virginia, 11. Dawes' philanthropies are numerous, but mostly unknown outside his immediate circle. He established in honor of his father and mother the Dawes hotels for unfortunate men and women who were thus enabled to obtain "bath, bed and breakfast" for ten cents.
 Mrs. Dawes is a delightful hostess, but Mr. Dawes likes informality. In France his leather puttees caused him a lot of trouble. After enduring pain for some time he confided in a brother officer, who learned that the gen-

Passed Resolutions

Honoring A. B. Wicker

The following are the resolutions which were passed by the Lee Co. Central committee last week in tribute to the late A. B. Wicker of Franklin Grove, for many years a member of the committee:

Whereas, In the death of our late member, Mr. Albert B. Wicker, this committee has lost a valued and earnest worker in the interest of our party, and whose devotion to its principles and loyalty to our organization was unquestioned, therefore Be It Resolved, that the sympathy of this committee be extended to his family and friends, and that it has pleased our Great Creator to take him to that bourne from whence no traveler returns, we shall miss his wise counsel and kindly greetings, and adopt this resolution in respect to his memory.

Signed:
 Dr. F. M. Banker
 Frank Bessler
 Roy Long
 Members of Committee.

Mass sanitation and public hygiene will and should continue but they cannot increase much more the average length of life unless supplemented by intelligent effort on the part of the individual to maintain a high standard of personal hygiene. Public health after all is a summation of individual well being. Each man and woman will have to find out through physical examination what his or her individual problem is and act accordingly in order to live long and healthfully.

If the body cells are in bad condition they manifestly are less able to repel a poison than otherwise. The ability of the cells to function properly are reduced when a person has a cold, when he eats too little, when he becomes chilled, when he sleeps too little, when he drinks mean liquor or any other kind.

Simple Way to ### Take Off Fat

Can anything be simpler than taking a convenient little tablet four times each day until your weight is reduced to normal? Of course not. Just purchase a box of Marmol Prescription Tablets from your druggist for one dollar, and start now to reduce. Follow directions—no starvation diets or tiresome exercising. Eat substantial food, be as lazy as you like, and keep on getting slender. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy slender figures by using Marmol Tablets. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marmol Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.—Adv.

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble. I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 115 to 135 pounds. I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tennessee.

For appetizing meals at moderate cost

As a
Spread for Bread
 on the Table

Bread, in one form or another, appears regularly on the American family dining table at every meal. Equally important with the bread is the spread which makes it appetizing and rounds out its food values. The finest spread for bread is fresh, tasteful Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine. This blended spread is a real contribution to the art of better living. It is made by combining several choice ingredients together. In this way it is possible to secure better flavor, a purer food and sounder food-values than by a less advanced method. The mother, housewife or hostess, called upon to serve tasteful, appetizing meals, can use this table quality margarine to great advantage.

Shortening in Baking & Cooking

In food preparation the calls for a shortening are many. Pastry needs plenty of shortening. Roasted fowl calls for a cup and one-half for basting and dressing. And so on. With every call the quantity mounts up, until shortening is a really important item in the kitchen; and the problem is—to have good things to eat and yet keep the cost down. Fresh Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is splendidly useful as a shortening, and solves the problem perfectly for the housewife. Cakes, biscuits, dressing and doughnuts, when made with GOOD LUCK, are excellent; and pastry is simply wonderful. GOOD LUCK improves the home menu, and is not expensive.
